INDIANA MINE AREA IS UNDER MARTIAL LAW

State Troops Arrive at Scene of Warfare in Strike Territory.

WORKERS BESIEGED BY ARMED PICKETS

Aid of Soldiers Asked After Small Nonunion Force Is Trapped.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The Dixie Bee coal mine and adjacent territory, scene of battle between union pickets and mine workmen, were placed under military control effective at 9:30 tonight by proclamation of Adj. Gen. Paul E. Tombaugh, acting in behalf of Gov. Harry G. Leslie.

The proclamation was issued shortly after arrival of the first of 820 Indiana National Guardsmen, ordered by the governor to protect lives and property at the mine near Pimento, where one man was killed and eight injured yesterday in gunfire between the more than a thousand pickets and 65 nonunion miners besieged there.

The troops mobilized on State property—the campus of the Indiana State Teachers College—shortly after 10 p. m. Col. Paul Selberling, of Jonesboro, Ind., assumed active command, and a detachment was ordered to proceed to the mine to conduct an inspection tour.

The Dixie Bee miners have been besieged in almost the same manner as was the little group at the Hoosier mine near Dugger two weeks ago. The siege at Dugger was lifted when Gov. Leslie followed a provisional battalion of National Guardsmen into the coal district and by personal intervention persuaded the pickets to leave the mine and the operators to suspend work pending efforts to reach a peaceful settlement.

Dispatches Troops.

Gov. Leslie ordered the guardsmen sent to Pimento shortly after noon today. He had been importuned to send troops by Sheriff Joseph Dreher, of Vigo County, and Ralph Butler, day superintendent of the Dixie Bee.

Butler, fearful of the fate of his three sons and his brother beleaguered at the mine, paced the governor's office distractedly this morning while the executive was considering the request for troops. Butler expressed concern lest the pickets close in on the mine defenders and exterminate them.

Word that the troops were coming spread among the pickets this afternoon but there was no immediate withdrawal. They held to their positions in a cornfield and along a railroad track from which they commanded all approaches to the mine.

No Added Casualties.

The nonunion miners and pickets kept up a desultory fire but apparently there were no added casualties. The first outbreak of firing, which occurred late yesterday, resulted in the death of one picket and the wounding of four pickets and four of the mine defenders.

The wounded at the mine remained without medical attention. Pickets last night turned back ambulances sent to evacuate the injured men. All outsiders who sought to approach the mine were turned back.

Sheriff Dreher, who had sent several messages to Gov. Leslie asking that troops be sent to assist in preservation of order, became impatient during the morning and, through his attorney, sought the intervention of Federal officers. He dispatched a telegram to Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commanding the Fifth Army Corps Area, requesting Federal troops.

The Army officer replied that Indiana officials had informed him they were cognizant of the situation. Without a formal request from State officers for aid, Gen. Drum said he had no authority to order United States troops into Indiana.

The sheriff also called the situation to the attention of George R. Jeffrey, United States district attorney, but that official, too, took the position that it was a matter for State authorities to handle.

Operators of the Dixie Bee several months ago were granted an injunction by Federal Judge Louis Fitzhenry to prevent interference with men employed at the mine. Nearly 200 men were arrested several weeks ago for alleged violation of this injunction.

Judge Fitzhenry announced today at Bloomington, Ill., that he would be in Indianapolis next week to hold a further hearing on the injunction.

19 New World Powers Outlaw Gains by Arms

Peace Hope Bright, but Paraguay and Bolivia Speed Fight Plans.

(Associated Press.)

The outlook for peace between Paraguay and Bolivia brightened considerably yesterday as pressure against war was being exerted in Europe and both the Americas. Both nations, however, rushed preparations to fight it out in the field in the event that battle becomes necessary to settle their conflict over the Gran Chaco territory on their borders.

At Geneva the League of Nations secretariat announced that Paraguay had agreed to arbitrate.

At La Paz the Bolivian government made public a note informing the league that Bolivia "does not decline pacific means for solution of the controversy."

In Washington representatives of nineteen American nations drew up a statement calling on the belligerents to cease hostilities.

Following Paraguay's general mobilization order signed Tuesday night, Bolivia called all classes between the ages of 22 and 29 to the colors.

So great was the war fervor in Asuncion that 300 volunteers almost Pact Is Signed by U. S.; Plea to End Chaco Dispute Is Made.

(United Press.)

A new force in Pan-American affairs, rivaling the Monroe Doctrine in importance, was born yesterday when the United States joined other powers of the new world in declaring it would not recognize territorial gains made by armed force.

Thus the Hoover "nonrecognition doctrine," first applied to the Japanese-Chinese dispute last winter, was broadened to include the Western Hemisphere. If upheld, it will end territorial imperialism in the new world.

Nineteen nations of the Western Hemisphere, including the United States, employed the new doctrine yesterday in making representations to Bolivia and Paraguay in an attempt to prevent war over the disputed Gran Chaco territory. They were warned that if they battled, the gains of the winner would not be recognized as legal by the nineteen nations.

In a note to the two quarreling nations, the 19 neutrals proposed that the dispute be settled by "arbitration or by such other peaceful means as

EFFECT OF M'CARL'S RULING GOES DEEPER

Workers Indefinitely Furloughed Under It May Be Recalled.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Federal workers indefinitely furloughed to avoid dismissals may be recalled to duty as result of the far-reaching Comptroller General's decision on priority of "legislative" furloughs, it appeared last night.

While the Comptroller General scanned a civil service request for reversal of the ruling, the broad influence of the decision, penalizing five-day week employes and striking at units already hard hit by appropriation cuts, spread deeper into the service.

If the comptroller insists that no enforced leave may be ordered in excess of five days month until the legislative leave is used up, then workers now on indeterminate leave must be placed again on the payroll, units affected admitted.

Outright discharges would be one alternative, and the economy act prescribes furloughs in lieu of these, officials point out. The effect might be to run up departmental expenditures in the first six monhs, forcing ruthless retrenchment in the last half of the fiscal year.

Despite his ruling that only five days' leave a month can be compelled under the economy act, McCarl in the same opinion incorporated a seemingly conflicting opinion that where workers are on indefinite leave for a year, a month's pay must be turned back to the Treasury.

This, if complied with, would mean an additional loss to the Federal Farm Board alone of $30,000, it was said. The board now has 140 employes on indefinite leave. The Federal Trade group and other economy-

SEABURY IS CAUSTIC ANSWERING WALKER

Tells Roosevelt Mayor Was Evasive and Falsifier in Meeting Charges.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Caustic charges of contradiction, evasion and falsification were directed tonight at Mayor Walker's defense of his administration by Samuel Seabury, who told Gov. Roosevelt the New York Mayor had proved himself "unworthy of belief" about his official conduct.

The Hofstadter legislative committee counsel, who spent a year and a half investigating the New York City government, reviewed the whole Walker case in a 20,000-word document. It was his rebuttal to the mayor's defense of charges on which his removal has been asked.

"The record now before you clearly proves the mayor is guilty of the acts set out in the specifications," Seabury wrote, referring to his previous analysis of the evidence produced in committee hearings.

"I submit the matter to you for such action as may be just to him (Walker) and to the great public interests that are involved."

The dispatch of the document to Albany, where Gov. Roosevelt ordered it made public, made more imminent a decision in the bitterly argued case, which has attracted even international interest.

Although the govefnor has firmly stated no political consideration would influence his decision, his

Mukden Describes Biggest Battle Yet

Reports 30 Japanese and 60 Irregulars Slain at Newchwang.

Peiping, China, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Telegrams to the Japanese legation from Mukden, Manchuria, said today that the most serious conflict thus far between Chinese irregulars and Japanese troops was being fought at Newchwang.

One thousand irregulars attacked the town yesterday, the telegrams said. Sixty irregulars and 30 Japanese were reported killed.

The Japanese garrison, numbering 100 troops, stiffly resisted the attack, while reinforcements were rushed from Tashihchiao on the South Manchuria Railway. Japanese destroyers landed several hundred sailors and Manchukuo airplanes twice bombed the Chinese lines.

Britain Warned Irish Issue Ahead of Debts

Dublin, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Senator Joseph Connolly, minister of posts and telegrams, told the Senate tonight that creation of an Irish Republic was a policy of President Eamon de Valera and that Great Britain could not hope to get its war debts considered by the United States "so long as this question remains unsettled."

His declaration was in debate that preceded the Senate's adoption of a resolution urging the government to reopen negotiations immediately with Britain with a view to settling the land annuities dispute which recently plunged the two countries into a tariff war.

Olympic Stadium, Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The bespectacled little American Negro, Eddie Tolan, of Detroit, who had to rely on a friend's assistance to get to his country's final tryouts, today was crowned sprint champion of the world as he raced to decisive victory in the Olympic 200-meter final before 85,000 spectators.

Four years ago Tolan failed to make the American Olympic team, but today he came down the stretch with an unbeatable rush to lead his teammates, George Simpson and Ralph Metcalfe, and lower the Olympic record to 21.2 seconds.

Two days ago the dusky little thunderbolt beat the giant Metcalfe by only 2 inches in the 100-meter final, but today Tolan eliminated any question of the outcome by beating Simpson by 2 good yards, with Metcalfe a scant half foot further behind.

Colonel's Home Robbed of Gems

Police Estimate Loss at $16,000; Exaggerated, Says Col. Wooten.

A quantity of jewelry, which police estimated in value at $16,000, was stolen yesterday from the apartment of Col. William P. Wooten, U. S. A., retired, executive secretary of the Society of American Military Engineers. Col. Wooten lives at 2540 Massachusetts avenue northwest, which is also the address of Herbert B. Crosby, District Police Commissioner.

Police said that in the estimate of the loss given by a member of the family, one diamond bracelet alone was valued at $12,000. Entrance was gained by jimmying the door of the apartment and the place was ransacked.

Col. Wooten last night said the police estimate was greatly exaggerated. He said the loss would hardly be more than $5,000. He said Mrs. Wooten left the apartment at 12:45 p. m. yesterday and when she returned at 3 p. m. she discovered the loss.

Bonus Army to Converge on State Capitals; McCloskey Advises Departure.

Johnstown, Pa. (Thursday), Aug. 4 (A.P.).—The first contingent of B. E. F. left for Chicago, California and points between at 12:30 o'clock, Eastern standard time this morning.

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 2 (A.P.).—The Associated Press learned from an unimpeachable source tonight that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation is furnishing the money to transport the bonus army to its home States.

Bethlehem has gigantic mills here and is the "backbone" of the city.

Mayor McCloskey's announcement that passenger transportation would be furnished to the army came after a closed conference between himself, staff officers of the army and a representataive of Bethlehem Steel.

Many thousands of dollars will be required to transport the 7,000 men, women and children to their home States. The first "evacuation train" is leaving late tonight for the West Coast.

To Reassemble in States.

As the bedraggled bonus army evacuated its suburban camp tonight, word went out that various contingents will converge on their home-State capitals.

Leaders of units from Pennsylvania and Illinois notified field headquarters that their forces will reassemble at Harrisburg, Pa., and Springfield, Ill., respectively.

Other State commanders were working among their men and word of the new convergences spread rapidly in the ranks of the hungry and downhearted veterans.

Passenger coaches tonight were being shunted onto a siding near Justice Department Tells Police of 200 on Trains From Various Points.

Despite the fact that W. W. One group was under allegedly Communistic leadership, the report declared.

On receiving the report from the Department of Justice, Inspector Frank S. W. Burke sent out a general notice to all precinct commanders detailing the information received for their future guidance. Police have been charged by the District Commissioners with the task of preventing organized groups from entering the District.

There are 40 of the veterans now at Louisville, Ky., the report stated. The bonus marchers have 4? at Springfield, Ill.; 30 at Chillicothe, Ohio; 40 at East St. Louis, including 1 woman, and 40 at Washington, Pa.

Borah Favors Debt Erasure In Trade for Disarmament

Senator, in Minneapolis, Urges Improvement of Foreign Markets to Provide Steady Outlet for Agricultural Products; Again Pleads for Parley.

Minneapolis, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Cancellation of European war debts owed the United States in return for a permanent policy of disarmament was urged in an address tonight by Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho. He said this exchange, together with disposal of the reparations question, would return world prosperity.

Unless Europe agrees to disarmament, cancellation should not be considered, he said. He then proposed that at the world economic conference now being planned, the United States unhesitatingly insist that war debts, reparations and disarmament be given prominent places in the subjects to be discussed.

He termed his address nonpolitical and it gave no inkling as to whom the Idaho Republican would support for the Presidency in the coming election.

Failure to disarm has broken the confidence of business in every section of the world, and a definite program of disarmament would be the first means of permanently insuring return of confidence and of prosperity, he told the Minneapolis branch of the Foreign Policy Association in his address at the University of Minnesota. More than 5,000 persons heard him, with several thousand others turned away because of lack of room.

Any plan to aid agriculture is doomed to failure unless European and other foreign markets are permanently improved to afford a steady outlet for the produce of the American farmer, he said.

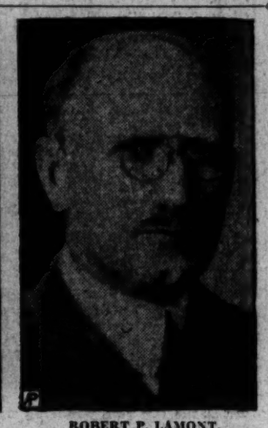
LAMONT RESIGNS DUE TO BUSINESS DEMANDS; CHAPIN TO TAKE POST

ROY D. CHAPIN.



ROBERT P. LAMONT.

Shift Is Due To Be Made In 10 Days.

MOVE COMES AS SURPRISE

Auto Trade Chief Chosen; Hoover Lauds Aid.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

The resignation of Robert Patterson Lamont as Secretary of Commerce was formally announced at the White House late yesterday afternoon.

At the same time the President named Roy D. Chapin, of Detroit, the founder and now chairman of the Hudson Motor Car Co., to Mr. Lamont's place in the Cabinet.

The shift is to become effective as soon as Mr. Chapin can arrange his business affairs, probably ten days hence.

Due to Business Demands.

Secretary Lamont was forced to relinquish the heavy responsibilities of the Cabinet office because of increasing demands upon his time and energy by his private business affairs in Chicago. He had sought to be relieved of his official position three times before during the last year, but had yielded each time to President Hoover's request that he carry on until his successor could be found.

In announcing the sudden and unexpected change in the Cabinet, the President said:

"Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont has found it necessary to resign in order to reenter private business.

Hoover Expresses Regret.

"Mr. Lamont has remained in his position, at great sacrifice for several months at my request. I regret extremely his loss from the Cabinet as his abilities and services have commanded the respect and confidence of the entire country.

"I am pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Roy D. Chapin, of Detroit, as Mr. Lamont's successor."

Mr. Lamont's major business interest prior to his appointment as Secretary of Commerce in March, 1929, was the American Steel Foundries, with which he has been associated for more than twenty years. Since 1912 he had been president of the corporation, in active charge of all operations of one of the "big five" independent steel producers.

Many Interests.

In the decade prior to 1929, his interests branched to many other lines and at the time of his appointment to the Cabinet Mr. Lamont was a director of many of the leading industrial and financial institutions of the United States, including the First National Bank of Chicago, Armour & Co., the American Radiator Co., Montgomery Ward & Co., the International Harvester Co. and the Illinois Bell Telephone Co., one of the most important operating units in the gigantic A. T. & T. system.

Under the law it was necessary for Mr. Lamont to sever all active business connections when he entered the Cabinet. During the last two years the forces of depression have struck some of their heaviest blows in the steel industry and its affiliated lines, and Secretary Lamont is reported to have determined many months ago

OTTAWA MOVE HITS U. S. AUTO EXPORTS

Treaty Reported Imminent Would Hurt Australian Trade of America.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—An agreement which would make serious inroads in the American automobile business with Australia was understood to be imminent today when British and Australian negotiators met in the first formal two-party parley of the imperial economic conference, in which the London government participated.

Under the reported agreement, Australia would cut tariff rates on British imports in return for preference in the British market on meats and increased preferences on fruit, butter, wines, grain and dairy products.

Australia now makes large purchases of automobiles in the United States. Any such give-and-take arrangement with the mother country would mean the diversion of much of this business to British manufacturers.

The meeting between the British and Australian negotiators gave rise to rumors that the reported steel accord between the United Kingdom and Canada was being extended to Australia. It had been understood that regulations covering trade terms and specifications, which have been drawn up by the committee on industrial standardization, and which especially affect steel, would be submitted separately to the various delegations once Canada and Britain had ratified them.

Most of the trade agreements effected here are expected to take bilateral form, but it was considered necessary for the expansion of the British steel industry that all dominions, whatever action they might take on tariff preferences, adopt common standards of manufacture.

Some Canadian observers pointed out that governments are not the buyers aimed at in agreements which may be reached at the conference

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Four members of the North Carolina National Guard, in training at Fort Moultrie here, were reported injured today when a sub-caliber projectile from a 155-mm. gun struck a tug which was towing a target.

Regular Army officers refused to discuss the accident, and attaches at the fort reached by telephone denied any one was killed.

ROOSEVELT ASSAILED BY MOSES ON DEBTS

Says Nominee's Plan Would Displace $3,000,000,000 of American Trade.

(Associated Press.)

An assertion that "Gov. Roosevelt's solution of the foreign debt problem" would "displace $3,000,000,000" worth of American goods was made yesterday by Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire.

In a statement issued through the Republican national committee, Senator Moses said the Democratic presidential nominee's position meant the American people, in effect, would have to pay the debts "out of their own pockets."

The new Republican thrust at recent utterances of Gov. Roosevelt shared political interest with word that Speaker Garner will return to the Capital within two weeks to prepare for an extensive speaking tour as Democratic candidate for Vice President.

Meanwhile, arrangements were completed for President Hoover's notification ceremony here August 11.

Senator Moses, in his statement, said: "Gov. Roosevelt proposes to reduce our tariffs and to throw the American market open to the debtor nations to an extent sufficient to permit them to make a large enough profit to pay us approximately $300,000,000 a year.

"It seems to me clear that the governor has definitely in mind doing just what he says—permitting enough foreign goods from the debtor countries to be sold in this country to furnish the profits from which the debts could be paid.

"Let us assume, for the sake of argument, that the profits of foreign manufacturers are 10 per cent. And let us assume further, for the sake of argument, that the debtor nations do

Chicagoans Warned City "May Lose Government"

Chicago, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The warning that Chicago soon may have no city government unless property owners pay their taxes again sounded through the City Hall today. It followed announcement from four of the city's largest banks that they would purchase ten or twelve million dollars more of tax warrants, "and then we're through."

Purchase of warrants by banks has been a principal reliance of city and county governments for revenue since changes in assessments and a "tax strike" have combined to hold up regular tax collections. The warrants are issued with the understanding they would be redeemed when collections of taxes permitted.

Smith as Independent Candidate Is Possibility

Minneapolis, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Petitions to place former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, in the Minnesota political field as an independent candidate for President will be circulated tomorrow, John B. Grones, Minneapolis, said today.

Grones, a Minneapolis Democrat, four years ago was an active supporter of the then Democratic Presidential candidate. Grones said the proposed ticket would consist of Smith for President and Gov. Joseph D. Ely, of Massachusetts, for Vice President.

2 COMMERCE UNITS ARE CONSOLIDATED

Lamont Orders Merger of Navigation Bureau and Steamboat Inspection.

The second merger under the economy act, combining the Commerce Department's Bureau of Navigation with the Steamboat Inspection Service, was ordered operative yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

The consolidation, following in the wake of the Federal Radio Commission's merger with the Commerce Department's radio division, leaves unconsummated only one amalgamation ordered by Congress. On October 1 the Personnel Classification Board must combine with the Civil Service Commission.

Naming of Director Delayed.

The consolidated Commerce Department agencies will be known as the Bureau of Navigation and Steamboat Inspection. Secretary Lamont's order provides for appointment of a director. He may not be named for several months.

Assistant directors of the merged units will be Commissioner A. J. Tyrer, of the old Bureau of Navigation, and Dickerson N. Hoover, supervising inspector general of the Steamboat Inspection Service, each drawing $7,500 annually. The director probably will receive $9,000.

Dismsssals Ordered.

Although no dismissals were ordered yesterday, Secretary Lamont indicated that some of the 612 employes of the two agencies who are "not indispensable to the service" must go. The weeding out process will begin at an early date. Of the 612 employes of the two units about 60 are located here.

Appropriations for the two egencies, totaling $1,576,165, will be transferred to the new bureau. The Steamboat Inspection Service had been allotted $1,128,625 of this, and the Bureau of Navigation, $347,540. Commissioner Tyrer said the Bureau of Navigation turned back to the Treaury last year more than six times the funds appropriated by Congress for its operation.

Abandoned Mine Shaft Yields Rich Gold Store

Sonora, Calif., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—A solid chunk of gold valued at $1,300 was part of a rich find reported here today by Robert Newmeyer. The prospector said he found the gold in an abandoned mine shaft on the slopes of Jackass Hill, one-time home of Mark Twain.

Newmeyer has prospected in the vicinity nearly four years, but seldom has found gold in appreciable quantities. About four weeks ago he started work on the abandoned shaft. Newmeyer said he had taken out two lots. One worth $4,000 and the other $4,100.

About 50 homes in Arlington County were in darkness for two hours last night as the result of a severe electrical storm which passed over the county.

bit Federal agencies also have a large number.

The Comptroller's office yesterday was mulling through a pointed review of the situation resulting from the ruling, submitted by President Thomas E. Campbell, of the Civil Service Commission. No decision is expected within at least 48 hours.

Labor Department Watches.

Meantime the Labor Department, which has more than 800 workers locally on a five-day week, and hundreds of others in the field, was attentively awaiting the ruling. Representatives of the department have been represented at conferences with the Comptroller General, but no formal action will be taken pending outcome of the Civil Service request for a review.

Even if the Comptroller General insists that five-day week employes lose one-eleventh of their pay instead of the one-twelfth prescribed for departmental workers under the economy act, it is dubious whether the Labor Department will abandon the five-day week basis.

There is a technical question as to whether the department and the Civil Service Commission are really on a five-day week, inasmuch as the plan provides for only 48 Saturdays off out of 52 in a year. This question may figure in negotiations between the commission and McCarl's office.

Rulings Favor Employes.

Several rulings on the economy act, favorable to Federal workers, were handed down yesterday by Mr. McCarl.

One directs that provision for transfer of appropriations within a department to meet emergencies "be construed liberally to accomplish the purpose for which enacted."

The Comptroller General informed Representative Mead (Democrat), New York, chairman of the House committee on postoffices and post roads, that postoffice employes have an absolute right to be paid military leave, denied them in a departmental order.

An employe on "legislative" furlough who attended military encampment, however, could not claim pay for the time served, he said.

that his return to Chicago to take up his own affairs was inevitable.

Mr. Lamont was out of the city yesterday when his resignation was announced at the White House. Aids at his office said they did not know where he might be located. He was expected back in Washington tomorrow morning. He had left his office Tuesday shortly after noon, presumably for Chicago.

Chapin Has Been Pioneer.

In Roy D. Chapin, President Hoover has enlisted the services of a man whose entire career has been devoted to successful pioneering in industry and commerce. He began as an experimental mechanic in the Lansing, Mich., wagon plant of the celebrated Ransom E. Olds, and turned his attention to automobiles in 1900, when the horseless carriage still was the plaything of young men who, somehow, had lost touch with the realities of life.

In 1901 he was called from his work bench by Olds to execute the most dramatic automobile "stunt" in the then tender history of the motor age.

"Roy," said the fantastic Mr. Olds, "I want you to take a car and drive it from Detroit to New York for the automobile show."

Had to Abandon Road.

It was an assignment undreamed of, but Chapin loaded his machine with more than its own weight in spare parts and headed off into the impassable roads of Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York. In the vicinity of Syracuse he was forced to abandon the tortuous dirt road in favor of the tow path bordering the old Erie Canal. He reached New York too late for the opening of the automobile show, but made automobile history by completing the first cross-country run of the motor era.

While speeding down Fifth avenue to Madison Square Garden, Chapin was compelled to swerve suddenly to avoid cutting down a pedestrian. His car skidded to the neatly clipped parkway.

The resultant street scene attracted the attention of the newspapers and thus focused the attention of the Nation on the greatest achievement of the automobile up to that time.

Olds' original venture, in Lansing, prospered for a time and then moved to Detroit, but the business suffered a terrific blow in 1902 when A. G. Spalding & Co., the foremost sporting goods store in New York City, declined to guarantee the sale of 100 cars a year for the exclusive New York agency.

This historic negotiation collapsed while Roy Chapin was in New York after his memorable cross-country ordeal.

Automobile Ventures.

In 1904, when Olds set up the original Reo Motor Co., back in Lansing again, Chapin was his right-hand man on engines and design. Howard E. Coffin was chief of the engineering force.

Four years later Chapin persuaded Hugh Chalmers to leave his $70,000-a-year berth with the National Cash Register Co. to join himself and Coffin in the Chalmers-Detroit Automobile Co. The next year Chapin and Coffin struck out for themselves, organizing the Hudson Motor Car Co. In 1910 Chapin became president of that venture. In 1923 he became chairman of the board of directors, which position he still holds.

Soon after organizing the Hudson Co., Chapin heard tales of the automotive bent of a young man engaged as superintendent of the Chicago & Great Western shops in Olwein, Iowa. Chapin urged that young man to leave railway locomotives to others and stick to automobiles. The young man's name was Walter P. Chrysler.

Road Development Work.

Throughout the automotive world, Chapin also is famous for his pioneering in road development—a direct result of his historic Detroit-New York run at the turn of the century.

"Roads will make the automobile," became his motto. He preached it for years and then applied the doctrine by interesting himself actively in the national highway movement. He was one of the sponsors and early directors of the Michigan State Good Roads Association and later became vice president of the Lincoln Highway Association, which sponsored the first motor roadway from the Atlantic to the Pacific. During the World War he served as chairman of the highway transport committee of the Council of National Defense, of which his old friend, Howard E. Coffin, was chairman.

More recently he has been active in the same movement as chairman of the highway transport committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, member of the permanent commission of the International Roads Congress, and member of the Pan American Confederation for Highway Education.

During the last decade, Mr. Chapin also has interested himself in the development of aviation. He is now a director in the Detroit Aircraft Corporation, Curtiss Airports, Inc., and North American Aviation, Inc. He is also a director of the First National Bank and the Guardian Trust Co., of Detroit.

Mr. Chapin won international recognition for his book, "The Economics of Highway Transport." Published in 1921, it became in the course of five years the most celebrated work in that field. Largely in recognition of this work, the author was elected president of the Automobile Chamber of Commerce in 1927.

Born in Lansing, Mich., on February 23, 1880, Chapin was educated in the University of Michigan. Leaving Ann Arbor in 1901, he went to work in the Olds' shop in Lansing, where the internal combustion engine still was on the experimental benches.

Father of Six.

On November 4, 1914, he married Miss Inez Tiedeman, of Savannah, Ga. They have six children. His home is at Grosse Point Farms, near Detroit. He is a member of the Metropolitan Club and Chevy Chase Club, of Washington, as well as of leading clubs in New York, Detroit, Savannah, San Francisco and of the International Sportsmen's Club, of London.

Several hours before the announcement of his appointment to the Cabinet, Mr. Chapin conferred with President Hoover at the White House yesterday. Interviewed after this meeting, he expressed optimism regarding the business outlook for the United States, but gave no intimation of his appointment.

"I told the President that I am very much pleased with the turn for the better in business sentiment during the last month," he told newspapermen at the executive offices. "We are hopeful that this sentiment is going to keep developing and that it will soon reflect itself in more generous retail buying. There has been a decided change for the better in the psychology of the entire country, and this must soon make for better business generally. There is plenty of buying power in the country. The problem is to put it to work."

Confers With Mills.

Before leaving late yesterday afternoon for Detroit, Mr. Chapin also conferred briefly with Secretary of the Treasury Mills.

Always an incorrigible optimist, Chapin has frequently expressed his impatience with the economic doctrine that depressions grow out of periods of "overproduction."

"There are benefits that we in this country enjoy too exclusively," he said on one occasion recently. "We are going to find in the next ten or fifteen years the means to take these things to the balance of the world and exchange them for what other nations produce. Nations now making tariff barriers will remake them to permit closer trade union.

"If you might see turbaned Arans, as I have, forsake their horses to cling in their curious fashion to the tops of buses that speed over the roads of Morocco, you would realize how all the world likes new things and is willing to work and pay for the privilege of enjoying them."

Pioneer in Salesmanship.

Chapin also is known as one of the pioneers in modern aggressive salesmanship. When the early Olds models came out of the blacksmith shop, his problem was to sell them. Turning to photography, he experimented until he made pictures suitable for newspaper reproduction.

Three years later he was general sales manager of the Oldsmobile Co. He was still a few months less than 30 years of age when he became president of the Hudson Motor Car Co. in 1910.

The resignation of Secretary Lamont marks the fourth change in President Hoover's Cabinet since March 4, 1929. Secretary of War James W. Good died in the fall of that year. In the spring of 1930 Secretary of Labor James J. Davis relinquished his office to become a candidate in the Pennsylvania senatorial primaries.

Mellon Last to Resign.

In April of this year Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon tendered his resignation to accept appointment as Ambassador to Great Britain.

Since the death of Secretary Good, Mr. Lamont has been the senior member of the Cabinet. Born on December 1, 1867, he will celebrate his sixty-fifth birthday anniversary this year.

Mr. Lamont was born in Detroit, the present home of his successor, but since his graduation from the University of Michigan in 1891 has been identified continuously with Chicago interests. His first engineering job after leaving the university was on the site of the great Chicago World's Fair of 1893.

During the World War he served as colonel of ordnance and was honored in 1919 with the Distinguished Service Medal.

Denmark Leases Belmont St. Home

New Legation Formerly Occupied by Dawes and Hurley.

The Danish Legation has leased the Scott residence at 1620 Belmont street northwest and will move into its new quarters November 1, it was revealed yesterday.

The dwelling was built by the late Senator Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia, and was leased as a legation site from his estate. It was the Washington home of Charles G. Dawes during his term as Vice President. It was occupied after that by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley until last June. The legation is at present located in the Barr Building, 914 Seventeenth street northwest. Negotiations incidental to the transaction were conducted by Mrs. H. N. Lawrie.

Capital Florists Back From School

1,000 in National Association Instructed at Detroit Variously.

Five Washington florists returned yesterday from the first annual school of design of the Florists Telegraph Delivery Association held in Detroit. They were Granville Gude, of Gude Bros., Co.; Mrs. J. D. Blackistone and Shaw Blackistone, of J. Dan Blackistone, and George and Clarence Shaffer, of Shaffer, Inc.

Never before, said the returning florists, has an industry sponsored such a direct educational effort in behalf of its members.

An internationally known staff of experts in color, floral design and administration made up the faculty of the school. More than 1,000 members of the association attended.

Grounds Still Unsold, Montgomery Fair Off

Because there is small prospect of the county buying the Rockville Fair Grounds, this year's fair, which would have been financed by sale of the grounds, has been canceled by directors of the Montgomery County Agricultural Fair, Inc.

This action was taken after it was learned from Lacey Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners, that the grounds would not be bought until some objections are withdrawn. The fair association had counted on the sale netting $35,000.

WET'S LEAD MOUNTS IN MISSOURI VOTING

Col. Bennett C. Clark Is Far Ahead in Democratic Senatorial Race.

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Overcoming the lead rolled up by his opponent, Charles M. Howell, in Kansas City, Col. Bennett C. Clark, outspoken wet, tonight swept into an increasing lead as belated returns from yesterday's Missouri senatorial primary were tabulated.

Charles M. Hay, long identified with the prohibition cause in the State, was running far behind both his principal rivals.

Returns from 2,546 of 4,195 precincts in the State, including St. Louis and Jackson County (Kansas City) practically complete, gave Clark 156,581, Howell 117,108 and Hay 73,323.

Howell, backed by the T. J. Pendergast organization, which delivered whole precincts in Kansas City for its slate almost to the last voter, tonight was in a hospital there suffering from double pneumonia. Ignoring the advice of physicians, he had insisted on fulfilling last-minute speaking engagements.

G. O. P. Gubernatorial Race.

Aside from the Clark-Howell race, chief interest centered in the fierce tussle between Lieut. Gov. E. H. Winter and Secretary of State Charles U. Becker for the Republican nomination for governor.

When 2,274 precincts had reported, they were still almost neck and neck with 79,403 for Becker and 77,837 for Winter. Both were well ahead of Leo E. Koehler, avowed wet, who had 59,315.

Francis M. Wilson, Pendergast candidate, made a runaway race of the Democratic governorship contest, piling up a 2-to-1 lead over Russell L. Dearmont, "antiboss" campaigner.

The Republican senatorial primary was even more of a walkaway for former Mayor Henry W. Kiel of St. Louis, a wet, who easily outdistanced Dewey J. Short and Robert J. Kratky, his nearest contenders in a field of six.

Shannon Leads Field.

Representative Joseph B. Shannon, instigator of an investigation into alleged activities of the Federal Government in business, led 56 Democratic aspirants for the 13 places to be filled from the State at large.

Shannon, once an opponent of Pendergast but now his chief lieutenant, benefited from the record-breaking Kansas City organization vote.

Representative L. C. Dyer, H. F. Niedringhaus, J. J. Manlove and David Hopkins, Republicans, appeared sure of renomination.

Of the dozen Democratic incumbents only five—Shannon, J. J. Cochran, Ralph Lozier, Clarence Cannon and Jacob Milligan—were among the leading 13 in their party's vote.

ROOSEVELT RAPPED BY MOSES ON DEBT

what they obviously can't do—take all of the 10 per cent or 100 per cent of the profits in taxes in order to pay the United States Government.

"Even under these assumptions, the debtor countries would have to sell $3,000,000,000 worth of additional goods in the American market, or an increase of 75 per cent of our total imports in the year 1928, and displace $3,000,000,000 worth of American goods.

"The American people will never consider disrupting our agriculture and our industries, with all that it means in the way of unemployment and disorganization, in order, in effect, to pay the debts out of their own pockets.

"Rivals Tree-Planting Plan."

"As a solution to the debt problem this scheme is on a parity with the governor's suggestion that unemployment be met by tree-planting."

While President Hoover went over the first printed proof of his acceptance speech, two of his secretaries—Walter H. Newton and Lawrence Richey—finished mapping the general notification program in a conference with Everett Sanders, new chairman of the Republican national committee.

The ceremony, formally launching the President's campaign for reelection, will be held at night at Constitution Hall, after an afternoon garden party at the Executive Mansion in honor of the official notification committee.

Garner to Extend Tour.

The first proof of Mr. Hoover's acceptance address was at the White House yesterday morning before the President reached his desk. It is customary for him to revise his major addresses as many as three or four times and it is unlikely that advance copies will be furnished the press before the end of the week.

Reports received by Harry Sexton, secretary to Speaker Garner, said Gov. Roosevelt's running mate was recuperating rapidly at his home in Uvalde, Tex., from the strain of the recent Congress session and is now willing to make many more campaign speeches than at first planned.

Tentative plans for the Speaker call for several speeches in New England and Eastern States, the North and Middle West, and the Pacific Coast. It is unlikely, however, that Garner will make more than one or two speeches before September. His campaign headquarters will be at the Speaker's office at the Capitol, where he has been piling up campaign ammunition.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt's campaign for the Presidency largely will be in the hands of the personal friends who directed his drive for the Democratic nomination. Through them the nominee, who will have a hand in all the details, will express himself.

The announcement today that Robert Jackson, of Concord, N. H., would head the speakers' bureau, filled the last vacancy in the important campaign positions. Jackson has been actively working for Roosevelt for more than a year. To a large extent he was responsible for Mr. Roosevelt's name being entered in the New Hampshire primary last March 8, the first test for Democratic candidates.

Missouri Primary Has Record Voting

Largest Number of Ballots in History of This Election Cast.

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The largest vote of any primary ever held in Missouri was recorded in yesterday's election.

With approximately 1,000 of the State's 4,195 precincts still unreported, the Associated Press tabulation tonight totaled 744,181 votes. The highest previous total was in the 1928 primary, when there were approximately 695,000 votes.

The Democratic vote showed the biggest increase in yesterday's election. Tonight's tabulation of ballots in the Democratic senatorial race totaled 448,586, compared with the record of 395,000 established in the 1922 Democratic primary in which James A. Reed and Breckinridge Long waged a bitter fight for the nomination for United States senator.

Boston Mayor to Tour To Coast for Roosevelt

Boston, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Mayor James M. Curley announced tonight on his return from conferences with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and James A. Farley, Democratic campaign manager, he had been assigned a campaign tour through the Midwest, Northwest and Pacific Coast in behalf of the national Democratic ticket.

Woman Hurt as Auto Hits Truck Near Fairfax

Mrs. Minnie Maples, of Morgantown, N. C., was severely injured yesterday morning in a collision of an automobile and a truck on the Lee Highway near Legato, about 3 miles west of Fairfax, Va. She was treated by local physicians for a broken left arm, and cuts on the head and legs.

A small truck driven by Arthur Smith, of Fairfax, was being turned into a driveway when it was struck by the car driven by Glen Evans, of Morgantown, N. C., with his wife and Mrs. Maples as passengers. Both cars were badly damaged. Mrs. Evans also was treated for minor cuts and bruises. The drivers of both cars escaped injury. The two cars were ordered impounded by Judge Paul E. Brown, of the county trial justice court, pending settlement of claims.

Engineer Embarrassed For 12 Good Reasons

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Speaking of life's most embarrassing moment—

An engineer started out of New York today with a train consisting of twelve coaches and an engine. He whipped it into the drawbridge stop safely.

Then he made the short haul to Atlantic City, breathing happily that the trip had ended safely and looked back—to discover the twelve coaches were missing.

DRYS IN KANSAS ADD TO LEADS IN VOTING

Final Majority of McGill Is Likely to Be 2 to 1; Paulen Far Ahead.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Increasing victory totals piled up tonight for the heads of the major party tickets installed in yesterday's Kansas primary election, which saw the voters exhibit the cold shoulder to candidates who had thought the time ripe to campaign as wets.

Senator George McGill, Democrat, squelched the prohibition repeal bid of former Representative Chauncey B. Little and will be opposed for reelection in November by Ben S. Paulen, former governor, who triumphed over six opponents for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

As the count neared completion it appeared that Senator McGill's final majority over Little would be about 2 to 1.

Plurality of 30,000.

Paulen had a plurality of around 30,000 over his nearest competitor, Joe H. Mercer, secretary of the Kansas Live Stock Association, who conceded victory to the Independence banker. Tom Harlez, of Wichita, a wet, ran fifth.

Gov. Harry H. Woodring was the choice of the Democrats for a second term, running better than 2 to 1 ahead of Donald Muir, of Anthony, outspoken critic of Woodring's administration.

Alfred M. Landon, independent oil operator, won the Republican nomination for governor with a substantial majority over Lacey Simpson, Canton farmer, and Joseph H. Brady, Kansas City, Kans., attorney, who urged "vote as you drink." The wet Brady pulled only about one-fifth as many votes as Landon on incomplete returns.

In the general election, Gov. Woodring and Landon will be opposed by Dr. John R. Brinkley, "goat gland specialist."

Woodring Is Pleased.

Brinkley received 183,000 write-in votes for governor two years ago and filed petitions with the names of more than 100,000 voters this year to qualify as in independent candidate.

Representative W. P. Lambertson appeared the winner over a fellow member of the House, James G. Strong, for the Republican nomination in the new First District, consolidated under the reapportionment. The six other representatives in Congress, including one Democrat, were renominated. Kathryn O'Loughlin held a slight lead over eight men candidates for the Democratic nomination in the Sixth District, where Representative Charles I. Sparks, Republican, was renominated, defeating two opponents, one a woman.

Returns from 2,350 out of 2,676 precincts for Kansas Republican governor: Landon, 142,962; Simpson, 92,143; Brady, 26,659.

BORAH AGAIN URGES WORLD DEBT PARLEY

farmers problem as overproduction. As long as 70,000,000 people are hungry, as is true in the world today, there is no overproduction, only underconsumption."

Senator Borah said an international economic conference which leaves out the questions of war debts and reparations would be as meaningless as a playing of Hamlet with the character of "Hamlet" left out. He asserted that the United States should step forward willingly as a leader because the stake it has involved in the way of its own national depression can only be saved through cooperative action on its part.

Cancellation of European debts owed the United States should not be considered unless there is definite assurance that European nations will disarm and that the problems of reparations involving Germany is permanently settled, Senator Borah said.

When European nations are ready to act to bring about these changes, particularly to remove the load of taxation from its citizens involving the cost of armament there, this country should be ready and glad to cancel the debt as an investment in permanent prosperity, he said.

"These debts are justly due, for money loaned," the senator said. "There is no reason to cancel them unless you can exchange them for prosperity—for markets permanently improved, for reducing unemployment, and bringing us out of this depression together with the rest of the world."

"These debts are not a fetish. Some say if we cancel them we will be paying for the war. Right now we are paying for the war. We will continue to pay for it until the United States becomes bankrupt unless we settle these debts.

"Europe can not expect the help of the United States unless she rids herself of the crushing burden of armament. Her citizens are saddled with a tremendous load of taxations to meet the cost of wars of the past and wars of the future.

"If I could cancel the debts due the United States and at the same time effectuate a settlement of all of the war problems to open again the foreign markets to American farms and industry, and to restore prosperity, I would not hesitate to do so. The American farmer surely can not expect prosperity until his markets are returned."

From the audience a woman asked the senator why neither of the major party presidential candidates is advocating his program and whether if Senator Borah headed a third party he would take the same position he is now.

"Madam," the senator replied, "if I were the head of a third party, I'd be doing the same thing as these other gentlemen. I have the advantage of not being a candidate for office."

Another questioner asked him if he saw "any hope in President Hoover's proposal for a one-third disarmament by all nations."

The senator replied he regarded the program as offering "genuine hope," adding, "I know of no other way than disarmament to rescue the American people from this depression. The strangest thing is that all of Europe did not rush to accept the proposal quickly. I believe that the program should have called for at least a 50 per cent reduction of armaments."

Another voice asked why the senator does not join in the support of Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, whom the questioner characterized as "the only man who is willing to do anything worth while."

"I'll take that under consideration," Senator Borah replied, smiling broadly. "I didn't know that Thomas was advocating the program that I am. Is he?"

At no time during his address did Senator Borah furnish any clew as to the candidate he will support for President. He answered a questioner who led up to this point directly by saying, "This is a nonpolitical speech where I want to talk freely and we will leave the presidency out of it."

MUSSOLINI TO DENY BENEFITS OF PEACE

War Means Advancement, He Writes; Shake-Up Due in Diplomatic Service.

Rome, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Italian Fascism "casts aside pacifism" because it does not believe in "the possibility or utility of perpetual peace," Premier Benito Mussolini will say in an article to be published tomorrow.

His declarations come at a time of important international negotiations in Europe and, it was learned on reliable authority, a few days before an important shake-up in the Italian diplomatic service.

Before the end of the week, it was understood, Augusto Rosso, head of the League of Nations section of the foreign office, will be named to succeed Ambassador Giacomo de Martino at Washington. De Martino will retire.

Mussolini's signed article, entitled "Political and Social Doctrine," will appear tomorrow in his Popolo d'Italia at Milan, and later will be reprinted in all Italian newspapers.

In it the Fascist leader, who recently replaced Dino Grandi as foreign minister after the arms conference and the Lausanne reparations conference, says that pacifism "implies renouncement of struggle;" that war "brings human energies to their full force, placing the seal of nobility on people who have the courage to face it," and that democracy is often more ruinous than a single tyrant.

"Fascism is the will to power and empire," he says, "but an empire is not only territorial and military. It also is spiritual. For Fascism a tendency to expand is a sign of vitality."

The premier disapproves of doctrinaire attempts to create an atmosphere of world peace, saying "such organizations are useful in certain situations, but vanish before the wind of a tempest in the people's hearts."

BACHELOR ADMITS HE KILLED GIRL, 17

Suspect Hidden Because of Mob Threat; Body Found After 4-Day Hunt.

Ludington, Mich., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Sheriff George Colyer, of Mason County, said in a telephone call tonight that Francis (Rusty) Nash had confessed he was the slayer of 17-year-old Evelyn Sanford, whose body was found today buried in the basement of an unoccupied house in Freesoil.

Word of the confession was telephoned by Sheriff Colyer from the jail to which Nash was spirited from Manistee this afternoon in the fear that a mob was forming.

The sheriff declined to amplify his statement, but promised to give further details later. Officers have refused to say where Nash is held and the origin of the sheriff's call was not divulged.

Discovery of the girl's body buried in the basement of an unoccupied house at the rear of a boarded-up dwelling in which Nash lived, brought to a tragic conclusion a four-day search. Evelyn last was seen Saturday night as she walked toward her home through a swamp which is only a quarter of a mile from Nash's home.

An autopsy this afternoon disclosed that she had been knocked unconscious by a heavy blow across the face, then strangled by a rope tied about her throat. Examining physicians said a criminal assault had been attempted. They said she apparently died Saturday night.

Nash, 31 and a bachelor, lives by hunting and fishing. He was arrested last night because he had scratches on his face which a physician said apparently were caused by fingernails and because he was apathetic about the search for Evelyn's body. Until tonight he had steadfastly denied any knowledge of the disappearance.

Power Line Poles Ordered Removed

Company Is Told to Place Wires Near Airport Underground.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday formally ordered the Potomac Electric Power Co. to remove its wire line poles along the Alexandria highway just south of Highway Bridge because of the hazard to flying at Washington-Hoover Airport. The formal order followed a suggestion made several days ago.

Besides ordering the wires placed underground for a distance of 900 feet, the commission suggested in a letter that the lines be lowered to 15 feet beyond that point for a certain distance. The Utilities body intimated that a subsequent order might be issued if the suggestion were not sufficient.

The commission ordered that the work be done before August 21, as a large number of airplanes will be assembled at the airport at that time in connection with an air derby.

SIGNING NONRECOGNITION DOCTRINE

Bolivia and Paraguay were urged yesterday by nineteen nations of America not to resort to war in the flareup over the 60-year-old Chaco boundary dispute. Representatives of five neutrals are shown seated around a table at the State Department, signing the note which invokes the policy of nonrecognition of any gains made by force of arms. Left to right—Senor Don Jose T. Baron, counselor of the Cuban Legation; Senor Dr. Don Fabio Lozano, Colombian Minister; Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State of the United States; J. Richling, acting charge d'affaires, Uraguay; Pablo Hererra de Huerta, Counselor of the Mexican Legation.

CAUSES ARE BARED IN LATIN DISPUTES

Geography and History Are Blamed for Difficulty Over Boundaries.

Geography and history have combined to make extremely difficult the determination of boundary lines between South American countries and thus have provided a source of constant dispute, Dr. E. Gil Borjes, assistant director of the Pan-American Union, said yesterday, speaking before the Hispanic American Conference of George Washington University.

In the face of this inherent difficulty, he said, Hispanic America has established an international policy based on cooperation and arbitration, which was new to the world.

"The Congress of Panama," he said, "was the first occasion in the history of mankind when nations had met to establish a confederation on a basis of justice. For a century the history of South America had unfolded within the frame etched by Bolivar at this congress."

The lecturer explained that the difficulty over boundary lines arose from the imperfect geographic knowledge of the colonial epoch and the obscurities of land titles.

Today, Prof. J. Fred Rippy, of Duke University, who is visiting professor of history at the university during summer sessions, will discuss "Hispanic America and Europe."

Justice Dismisses Suit Against Webb

Attorney Loses in Move to Get $7,500 Claimed as His Fee.

The attempt of Attorney John H. Connaughton, of 1343 H street northwest, to have the District Supreme Court issue a mandatory injunction requiring Col. Frank E. Webb, presidential nominee of the Liberty party, to pay over to him $7,500 which he claimed as a fee, ended in failure when Justice Oscar R. Luhring dismissed the suit.

Connaughton claimed he had done work for William S. Vare, of Philadelphia, when Vare was attempting to gain his seat in the Senate. He was to get, he said, $12,500, and of that amount he obtained $5,000. The balance, he said, he was informed, had been paid to Col. Webb by Vare, and Webb failed to turn it over to him.

Attorney James J. Slattery, for Col. Webb, who has offices at 815 Fifteenth street northwest, attacked the suit and Justice Luhring upheld it in a simple decree that dismissed the bill.

19 NATIONS OF NEW WORLD OUTLAW GAINS THROUGH ARMS

may be acceptable to both." The signatories said they did not doubt that the country shown by an investigation to be the aggressor in the Chaco "will desire to give satisfaction to the one attacked."

Extension of the famous "Hoover doctrine" to Latin America was contained in the last paragraph of the note. It read:

"The American nations further declare that they will not recognize any territorial arrangement of this controversy which has not been obtained by peaceful means, nor the validity of territorial acquisitions which may be obtained through occupation or conquest by force of arms."

Nearly Duplicated.

This, in effect, is what Secretary Stimson said to Japan and China in a note last January 7. He based his doctrine on the Kellogg pact, pledging its signatories not to employ war to solve their disputes. The note yesterday did not mention the Kellogg pact because Bolivia has not signed it. However, the language of the Kellogg pact was nearly duplicated in this section of the note:

"The American nations have long been proponents of the doctrine that the arrangement of all disputes and conflicts of whatever nature or origin that may arise between them can only be sought by peaceful means."

Room Tense With Drama.

The new Latin-American peace doctrine was born in a room tense with drama. Around the dark, plush-covered table in the diplomatic room of the State Department gathered the envoys of nineteen American nations, anxious to avert war among two members of their family. They realized, no doubt, that they were making history—laying down a policy which may take its place beside the Monroe Doctrine.

Assistant Secretary of State White, representing the United States, laid the note on the table. One by one, in the order of their rank, the envoys wrote their signatures. The scene was photographed. Then, with sober mien, the diplomats shook hands and parted—having written a new chapter in Pan-American history.

HOPES FOR PEACE IN CHACO ARGUMENT BECOME BRIGHTER

swamped a transport starting up the Paraguay River toward the front with 500 soldiers abroad.

Hundreds of Paraguayan women—society girls and husky peasants—besieged government offices with pleas that they be allowed to fight alongside their men.

Would Agree to Peace.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Bolivia informed the League of Nations today that she "does not decline" pacific solution of her controversy with Paraguay over the Gran Chaco territory, and at the same time prepared for the eventuality of war.

Matching Paraguay's general mobilization order, the government called to the colors all classes between the ages of 22 and 29 and summoned all retired Army officers between 20 and 50 years old to active duty.

The note sent by the foreign office to the League of Nations said:

"Replying to your cablegrams of August 1 and August 2, I beg to inform the council of the following:

"On June 29 our position at Lake Chuquisaca was attacked by Paraguayan forces who killed one Bolivian officer and four soldiers and wounded others. In spites of this attack Bolivia continued its conferences on the nonaggression pact. Paraguay refused to continue its delegates in Washington, and took advantage of its withdrawal to repeat aggression at the lake with strong contingents on July 15.

Soldiers Attacked Fort.

"After dislodging our soldiers, Paraguay—despite this insult to Bolivia—informed the neutrals it would return to the conference. On July 25, 50 Paraguayan soldiers attacked Fort Florida but were repulsed.

"In view of these repeated aggressions we in reprisal took three Paraguayan forts. The Paraguayan foreign office's assertion that Paraguay accepted an offer to investigate the incidents of July 15 and June 29 is false.

"The testimony of the neutrals at Washington should suffice to prove that Paraguay flatly declined to continue negotiations and offered to resume the conference only after its second attack on July 15, when the situation had changed notably. Bolivia, after tolerating the first insult, could not return to Washington submissively after the second.

1928 Aggression Repeated.

"These facts place Paraguay outside the law and oblige us to defend ourselves energetically. The aggression of 1928 has been repeated, but this time we are compelled to counteract Paraguay's action with greater measures in order to prevent any further incidents.

"Before the appeal of the league my government does not decline pacific means for the solution of the controversy based on limitations set forth by the neutrals.

"JULIO GUTIERREZ."

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Three hundred volunteers, anxious to see service against Bolivia in the Gran Chaco, almost swamped the first transport carrying troops to the scene of the conflict when the ship started up the Paraguay River today.

These aspirants for battle, reflecting the same patriotic fervor that has swept through the women of Paraguay, stormed the vessel, on which were loaded 500 soldiers. The departure of the ship was delayed while the men were shoved ashore.

Hundreds of women besieged the government offices, declaring they, too, had the right to go to war.

They came into the capital on trains, trucks and wagons and concentrated on the stadium, where recruiting activities are centered. They demanded active service at the front.

Nevertheless, the female belligerents scoffed at suggestions that they serve in civilian capacities at home, taking positions vacated by men at the front.

1,200 Answer Call.

Some 1,200 men reached the capital in answer to a general mobilization order signed by President Guggiare last night. For the most part they were schoolboys and college students.

Geneva, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Paraguay has agreed to arbitrate the conflict with Bolivia over the Gran Chaco territory, the secretariat of the League of Nations announced tonight.

The Asuncion government made known its willingness in reply to a telegram from the president of the league council calling on both nations to reach an amicable agreement.

Two Held as Stolen Auto Strikes Taxi

Police Locate Machine of Kenneth Romney, Jr.; Suspect Injured.

Two men were being held for investigation yesterday in connection with the theft of an automobile belonging to Kenneth Romney, jr., University of Virginia student, son of the sergeant at arms of the House of Representatives.

The men gave their names as Samuel Story, 34, of 1010 Sixteenth street northwest, and Richard Williams, 32, of 1615 I street northwest.

Story was caught by Romney and James Mitchell, of 4701 Connecticut avenue northwest, after they chased the automobile in Rock Creek Park. Williams was identified by Romney at Emergency Hospital where he had gone to be treated for injuries, said to have been received when the stolen automobile struck a taxicab.

$1,000,000 on Hand But Building Deferred

Although numerous Government construction projects with sites already cleared will not be built because of lack of appropriations, it is unusual to find the order reversed. But the Pan American Union finds itself in that predicament with $1,000,000 appropriated and made available for a new office structure but without a site on which to build at the present time.

It had been planned to put up the new building at Eighteenth and Constitution avenue on the site now occupied by the Government Heating Plant. But under the economy program the Government will use the heating plant for another two years, so the Pan American building must wait.

AVIATRIX, ON STAND, TELLS OF TWIN LOVE

Says Lancaster Planned to Kill Self That Clarke and She Could Wed.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The tangled and tragic love affairs of Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, with Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British army flier, and Haden Clarke, young writer, were recounted by her from the witness chair today in Lancaster's trial for the murder of Clarke.

She expressed confidence in the innocence of Lancaster, whom she said she had "always intended to marry" during their five years of intimate association, and said Clarke had often threatened suicide.

She declared that Lancaster's reaction to information that Clarke had taken his place in her affections while he was away on a business trip seeking to bolster their finances was one of "sadness," and that he had planned to kill himself so she and Clarke might collect $1,000 insurance on his life as a "wedding present." That plan, she continued, was abandoned when Lancaster learned the insurance company had failed.

In Love With Lancaster.

She admitted Lancaster and Clarke had quarreled at the dinner table the night of Lancaster's hurried return here upon being notified of her plan to marry the young writer, but she said they apparently patched up their differences on Clarke's agreement to a month's postponement of the wedding.

The quarrel arose, she said, when Clarke admitted the flier's charge of unfaithfulness in making love to her while Lancaster was away. Lancaster had left the two here together to work on a story of Mrs. Keith-Miller's life for publication under her name. She said she was still in love with Lancaster when he left.

Her voice shook as she told of the apparently amicable settlement of the quarrel and of all three going to bed, she in her locked room and the two men on a sleeping porch.

A few hours later—about 2 a. m.—she related, Lancaster rapped on her door to tell her Clarke had shot himself. She said the shooting was done with the only weapon in the house, one brought back from St. Louis by her flying partner.

Had Discussed Suicide.

Mrs. Keith-Miller told of hiding one of the two purported suicide notes found with the body. It was addressed to her. The other she left on a couch despite Lancaster's suggestion that they both be destroyed. She said she did not know until later that both had been forged by Lancaster, who told her he did it "because he thought scandal might attach to my name if the notes were discovered."

State's Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne suddenly asked her at one point in the examination:

"Do you know who killed Haden Clarke?"

"I am convinced he killed himself," she answered.

"But do you know who killed him?"

"I don't see how any one could know for sure."

She said she and Clarke had discussed committing suicide together a few nights before his death, "because of our position as far as Bill (Lancaster) was concerned."

Crowds, more than half women, stormed the courtroom throughout the day.

Mother Who Hunts Children Is Injured

Wife of Scientist Falls Down Flight of Steps at Courthouse.

Mrs. George Gaylord Simpson, wife of a New York scientist, was badly shaken up late yesterday when she tripped and fell down a flight of steps at the courthouse. Although she was apparently hurt, Mrs. Simpson refused either to be taken to a hospital or to receive medical attention.

Assistant United States Attorney Irvin Goldstein, with whom Mrs. Simpson had been in conference for two hours in an effort to secure aid of the Government in getting news of two of her four children, rendered first aid and then placed Mrs. Simpson in a taxicab. She was taken to her apartment at the Mayflower.

Mr. Goldstein informed Mrs. Simpson that on the facts in the case the Government could not assist her in locating her children. Two of the children are with their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Simpson, in San Francisco, Calif. The whereabouts of the other two are unknown to their mother.

Robber Imprisons Woman in Cellar

Young Man Escapes With $29 From Northeast Tailor Shop.

Mrs. Bertha Davidow, proprietor of a tailor shop at 1101 D street northeast, was imprisoned for 30 minutes in the basement of her establishment early yesterday by a robber, who escaped with $29.

Mrs. Davidow told police that a well-dressed young man held her up, ordered her to the basement and placed a sewing machine over a trapdoor. She was released by O. McCluskey, manager of a chain store in the same building, who heard her cries.

Police were told that the robber had a companion outside. She said burglars attempted to break into the store a week ago.

Delicatessen Clerk Held Up.

A young woman clerk in the delicatessen store of George Myers at 201 Eighth street southeast, was held up and robbed early today by two white men. Miss Ethel Donaldson, of 821 C street southeast, was alone in the store when the pair entered. One man, armed, held her back while the other took about $10 from the cash register.

3 MORE ARE VICTIMS OF GERMAN UNREST

Rumors of Moves by Hitler to Form Coalition With Schleicher Grow.

Berlin, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Three more names were added to the long list of Germany's political fatalities today while trial balloons were being launched to bring about negotiations looking toward a union of Adolf Hitler and Gen. Kurt Von Schleicher, Germany's two strong men, to rule the Reich.

Denial by a high foreign office official of reports that a meeting had been arranged between Gen. Von Schleicher and Capt. Ernst Roehm, Hitler's spokesman, failed to quiet widespread reports that important discussions impended.

Baron Von Alvensleben, a friend of Chancellor Franz Von Papen and a member of the aristocratic Herren Club, was particularly mentioned in newspaper stories in the role of government emissary.

The baron it was said, had gone to Munich to sound out "Brown House"—The headquarters of Hitler's National Socialist (Fascist) party on an unofficial mission.

Some political commentators predicted that formal negotiations between the government and the Nazis, who doubled their strength in last Sunday's Reichstag election but failed to win a majority, would be opened after the chancellor returned to Berlin from his vacation.

In addition to the three men killed in the continued political riots, in which guns, knives and clubs were used, many were injured.

Husband Nursed By Mrs. Rinehart

Novelist Resumes Role of Her Youth to Assist His Recovery.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Mary Roberts Rinehart, author, who as a nurse ministered to the sick in a Pittsburgh hospital when she was a young woman, today again was enacting the old role in part—this time at the bedside of her husband, Dr. Stanley Marshall Rinehart.

The husband's condition was described at the hospital today as "not quite as good as it was yesterday." Hospital officials said he is suffering from collapse. He came to the hospital last Saturday from a summer home in the Adirondacks.

It was in just such surroundings that Mary Roberts met her husband in the last decade of the 1800's. She had entered nursing as a career and he was a young physician. They were married on April 21, 1896.

Boy, 5, Hit by Auto, Critically Injured

Youthful Driver Is Held on Charge of Reckless Operation.

A boy, 5 years old, who was knocked down by an automobile as he ran across the street in front of his home at 1332 I street northwest yesterday, was in critical condition at Emergency Hospital last night. The youth operating the car was held on a charge of reckless driving.

The child is Thomas Norris, son of James Norris, a salesman. Police said he was struck by a machine operated by Roy DeWitt Rhodes, 18, of 108 G street, northwest. Rhodes took the child to the hospital.

There it was found the boy was suffering from a skull fracture and possible fractures of several ribs.

PARLEY PLAN RISES ARMS SLASH HOPE

Administration Feels That World Economic Session Might Advance Cause.

(Associated Press.)

The administration hopes that the forthcoming international economic conference, in addition to opening the way for an improvement of business conditions, will prove to be one of the steps leading to a reduction of world armaments.

This is one of the points that is being considered at the State Department and the White House, where thought is being given to the qualifications of a group of men from which will be chosen the three American members of the separate committees that will plan the conference and survey the economic and financial phases of the problem.

The announcement of the personnel of the group will be withheld until the time and place have been fixed for the preliminary meetings.

Already there is agitation for the appointment of a silver expert. Senator Smoot, of Utah, called at the White House yesterday and, after talking with the President, said he had urged that Mont Ferry, of Salt Lake City, be named as one of the experts.

While silver undoubtedly will figure largely in the discussions, they will be broad enough to cover virtually the whole economic field. Specific tariffs will be barred, as will be international debts, the administration having taken the attitude that these matters are things for each nation to work out itself. This view was transmitted to the various other nations in informal discussions that preceded the formal invitation for this country to take part.

Among those familiar with the attitude of the administration the position is taken that it is going into the conference with a hope that by smoothing out some of the difficulties that stand in the way of a free interchange of commerce among the nations a feeling of international good will may be brought about which will make disarmament possible.

The conference itself will be divided into two separate phases—a study of international finance and of the economic questions that are now to the fore in every country of the world. The first will include monetary and credit policies, exchange difficulties, price levels and the movement of capital. The second will give particular attention to tariff policies, trade prohibitions, restrictions, quotas and other barriers.

and that it is fallacious, therefore, to imagine that such agreements could arbitrarily divert any specific amount of business from one country to another.

Franco-Belgian Pact Scanned.

In both steel and cotton textiles, these observers pointed out, Canadians keep hand-to-mouth supplies and depend on quick delivery of orders rather than on surpluses carried at their own expense. On this basis doubt was expressed whether British industries, even if given additional tariff preferences, could afford to maintain sufficiently large warehouses in Canada to meet American competition.

Delegates were greatly interested in the new Franco-Belgian trade agreement involving millions of dollars in copper, lead, zinc, hides, skins, office equipment and other articles formerly imported into France from the United States and other European countries.

There was some disposition to look on this agreement, which is to run for eight months, as indicative of what other nations may do in the event the British at this conference effect a close trade alliance threatening nonempire countries.

Textile Tariff to Stay.

A statement by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett of Canada at a press conference yesterday was authoritatively interpreted today as meaning that the Ottawa government will not lower the tariff on textiles.

Canada is a substantial producer of certain types of cottons. In the twelve months ended last March she imported cotton goods to the extent of $14,706,300 from the United States and $6,391,100 from Great Bratin. British producers want to get the American share of this trade.

Under the authoritative interpretation of Mr. Bennett's remarks, Canada will protect her efficiently conducted [illegible] injurious competition from Britain. He [illegible] textile in[illegible]tion's most Summer Colds Are Not to Be Disregarded.

They Are Quite as Dangerous and Beauty-Destroying as Winter Variety.

"FEEL a little down and out, if you know what I mean, summer sniffles; been hanging on for a few weeks now, but just a little cold." Telephone report of an acquaintance.

A summer cold certainly does not enhance one's good looks. A red, sniffling nose, teary eyes, parched lips, perhaps a fever blister or cold sore, a general drooping feeling to the face seem pitifully out of place to summer sunshine and beauty. Worse yet, summer colds seem to hang on. Yet, women (and men, too) who take the winter variety seriously, take precautions to avoid one or go to bed at the first sign of it, regard a summer cold all too lightly.

Rules All Should Practice.

A well-known doctor offers a few simple and practical rules for avoiding a cold: Always wash your hands before eating and before handling food; don't shake hands with any one who has a cold unless you wash your hands thoroughly immediately afterward; do not use common drinking cups, roller towels, pipes, pencils, &c. Give coughers and sneezers a wide berth. Wash dishes in hot, soapy water. Avoid sudden changes of temperature. Do not allow yourself to become overtired. Keep physically fit by eating plenty of fresh and wholesome food. Your daily program must include bathing, elimination, exercise, sufficient sleep.

Many physicians suggest one-quarter of a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in a glass of lukewarm water taken three times a day when a cold is starting. Between the soda take several glasses of lemon or orange or grapefruit juice, minus sugar.

Analyze the above rules and you will agree that they will not only help avoid colds (and it is quite as simple to avoid one as to catch one—also the former is far more comfortable for all concerned), but also call for the sane and simple life that is conducive to health and beauty.

Colds are contagious and it is poor sportsmanship to say the least if the owner of a cold mingles with healthy normals, without at least taking simple, scientific measures of precaution. Be considerate of others. If you can not stay home and in bed, be sure to cover your face with kerchief when sneezing or coughing. Use the soft, tissue squares, like those for removing cream. They are sanitary, economical and practical. They come in pastel shades, the size of ladies' handkerchiefs. Discard after each using. And wash and sterilize your hands very frequently through the day. Avoid shaking hands when you have a cold, without sterlizing or washing the hands, else you will needlessly deposit germs in the hand of the person you are greeting so cordially.

If this sounds more like a health sermon than a beauty lesson, remember that the two are inseparable.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

IF IN DOUBT, DON'T.

WE all admire the daring Contract player who, in the bidding and play of a hand, flirts every moment with danger, but successfully escapes the pitfalls of honor-tricks and distribution adversely held. On the other hand, the player who insists upon warning his opponents of danger and affording them a key to the correct play of the hand may be an altruist, a kind father and an indulgent husband, but he is not an extremely desirable partner at the Contract table. The safety margin of 2 tricks required for a Penalty Double is based upon the fact that one of the expected trick-takers may not materialize in actual play or that the very fact of the Double may reduce the offensive strength of the player's holding.

A hand in which an adverse Double furnished the only key to the correct play is the following, played recently in a Duplicate game in Madison, Wis.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A K 7 6 2 ♡ A Q 5 ◇ 6 ♣ 10 9 6 5
♠ J 10 9 4 ♡ 10 8 3 ◇ 8 4 3 ♣ K Q 7	N W E S	♠ Q 3 ♡ J 9 7 6 4 ◇ K 10 9 7 5 ♣ 4
	♠ 8 5 ♡ K 2 ◇ A Q J 2 ♣ A J 8 3 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	2♠	Pass
3◇	Pass	5♣	Pass
6♣	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The bidding is orthodox enough, and the Small Slam contract eventually reached is perfectly correct. The only bad feature of the contracting is West's Double. At best, he can hope to defeat the contract, so far as his holding is concerned, but a single trick. It is true this defeat appears reasonably safe, but the difference between defeating a contract of six, undoubled, and six, doubled, not vulnerable, is a paltry 50 points—certainly not to be considered in rubber play, and scarcely worth the risk of giving valuable information to the Declarer as to the method of play in Duplicate.

West opened the spade Knave, and the Declarer, thanks to the Double, proceeded to make the contract. When the Dummy went down, it was reasonably apparent that West, for his Double, must have held the King-Queen of clubs and possibly (which was unimportant) the King of diamonds. The Declarer, therefore, won 2 spade tricks in the Dummy, and ruffed the third round of the suit in the closed hand.

Three rounds of hearts followed, both East and West following suit and South discarding a diamond. The Declarer then returned to his own hand with the Ace of diamonds, led another diamond, trumped in the Dummy, returned to his own hand by ruffing the fourth round of spades, and then ruffed the last diamond in the Dummy. Now the 10 of clubs was led, and West was permitted to win, only to be compelled to concede the twelfth and thirteenth tricks to the Declarer's major ten-ace in the trump suit.

Today's Pointer.

Doubtful Penalty Doubles are unwise, as they frequently furnish to the Declarer an opportunity to make a contract, which would otherwise be defeated. Unless the set is absolutely certain, a Penalty Double should have a safety margin, and should promise defeat of the contract by 2 tricks.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

"Garconniere" might be the name of the chic street tailleur with its starched collar and dress shirt front, its gunmetal gray woolen skirt and the midnight blue jacket that is exaggeratedly high in the front. (Seen on Hollywood Boulevard.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—I've mentioned it before—but like all good things, it has won such favor in my eyes that I mus' jus' tell you about it again.

Meaning the little top affair that makes an evening gown seem like what it simply ain't. Because, according to all rules and regulations, an evening gown ain't an afternoon dress, let alone a dinner dress, or even a cinema gown. Yet nowadays it is.

Dame Fashion has for once been generous with our pocketbooks. In giving us the mode of the little top that is worn over the decolletage of an evening frock—to make another and less formal gown of it.

I sketched one today—a pink georgette, lined in pink satin, since the decolletage of the black satin evening gown is not supposed to show beneath it. The cuffs are darling—all solidly beaded with crystals and pearls and pinkish stones—and the same on the stand-up collar and the belt—which ends in a tie sash.

There are ever and ever so many other versions of this top idea. Some are mere sleeves—not so mere, but merely, one should say—always tied on with something or other that serves to hold them in place. A scarf, maybe, or even a tiny bolero. Others are waistline length, always showing sleeves, of course. Still others are jacket length and even tunic length. One and all, they look as though they had nothing whatsoever to do with disguising the gown beneath—but they have, darling, they have. In fact, they serve such a purpose that they make another gown of it entirely—one expensive evening gown, extreme in its decolletage, can very easily become several—with these little jackets to change their "genre."

Don't you think 'tis a gorlicious idea?

Housework is as housework does—dahrling. And as housework does, so is she dressed. Well, this is getting mussed up! You are probably mussed up yerself, wondering how to do that housework gracefully—and still have something left of a lovely lady at the end of the day. Well, I'll tell you. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which will tell you—well, if not exactly how not to do your housework—at least, how to do it and remain a lovely, leisurely lady at the end of the day!

'Tis all in a trick of dressing for your trade, dahrlings. So if you are properly dressed, outside and underneath, for your housework, you will get it done and over with and have all the leisure and calmness and beauty you ever need with which to finish the day. Send the stamped, self-addressed envelope and see!

* * * *

And as a direct contrast to the beaded chiffon evening gown top and all it implies, I just sketched a tailored ensemble for you today that the Prince of Wales himself might envy! One sees gun-metal gray—but in a skirt instead of trousers! One sees a starched collar and cravat, shirt front—but "what long ears you have, grandmother!" And then one sees a chic little top jacket—and suddenly realizes that there are more things under the sun than Cicero or any one else wots of—and one is amused. Yes?

* * * *

Well, maybe you aren't—but I am!

Au revoir.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:25 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

The planetary forecast for August 4 is "unsettled." A dreary atmosphere during the early part of the day will be followed by a complete "clearing up," and laughter will follow tears. Most things "put through" in the morning will not turn out satisfactorily, whilst the afternoon affairs will be "O. K."

The child born on this August 4 will be inclined to be a little bold, somewhat independent and defiantly stubborn. It will have a very strong character and a difficult one to discipline. Experience will be its best teacher. It may be reached through its heart and managed beautifully by those who take the pains to understand its true nature.

The world will always like you, if born on August 4, because of your thoughtfulness—the things you have no need to do which are done in your name. You do your bit and a little bit more. You are courteous, kind and nice to people to whom you are under no obligations, beyond those of common decency. Your only payment may be your own inward contentment which comes from giving of self. Your kindnesses are often misunderstood, and you even receive "snubs" for little acts of simple grace.

If you be a man, you are a good workman. You are no clock watcher or time killer, and when on the job attend strictly to duty. You will have to battle for existence against fierce competition and jealous rivals. You can hold your own, however, in your own particular line because you are no pretender. If you have your own business, trade or profession, you are not above doing the necessary details, and you know how to pick your helpers.

You are straight in the best sense of the word, a person of transparent honesty and purpose. There are probably few "skeletons in your cupboard." You have strong ideals and convictions; you try to maintain the former, and are free to give expression to the latter. Your social accomplishments are many and varied.

Successful people born on August 4:

Peter Buel Porter, Secretary of War under J. Q. Adams.

Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, Secretary of State under Arthur.

Lovell H. Rousseau, criminal lawyer in Lewisburg, Ky.

Oliver P. Morton, a Governor of Indiana.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

Beefsteak Cooked to a Turn.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

A man's idea of a perfect dinner generally includes a juicy beefsteak and a piece of apple pie. While the average food budget can not stand the strain of too frequent beefsteaks, with meat prices as low as they are at present, beefsteak may not be an extravagance. Meat dealers who have been trying to suit those customers that demanded the cheaper cuts only have often had so much less call for the tender cuts that they sometimes put the steaks and chops on the bargain counter.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture gives the following suggestions on cooking a steak to a turn:

Select one of the tender steaks from 1 to 1½ inches thick. Trim the steak of excess fat and wipe it off with a damp cloth. A steak may be broiled by direct heat or it may be pan-broiled in a skillet. To broil by direct heat, grease the rounds of a rack, lay the steak on it, and place over live coals, or under an electric grill, or the flame of a gas oven.

If a gas oven is used, have the steak 2 or 3 inches below the flame. Sear on one side and then turn, being careful not to pierce the brown crust. When both sides are seared, reduce the heat, and turn the steak occasionally until cooked to the desired stage. A thick steak generally needs about 20 to 25 minutes to be broiled to the medium rare stage.

To pan-broil a steak, sear it on both sides in a lightly greased, sizzling hot skillet, then reduce the temperature and cook to the desired stage, turning the meat to insure even cooking. Do not add water and do not cover. From time to time pour off accumulated fat so that the steak will not fry. A thick steak after searing may be successfully finished in a hot oven (450 degrees F.). Slip a rack under the steak in the skillet, and the meat will cook evenly without being turned. Serve as soon as done, on a hot platter, and season with salt, pepper, and melted butter.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

THE STORY OF THE NOSE.

THE human face is dominated by the nose. There are those with unforgettable eyes, others with mouths that catch the attention. Some are distinctive because of the brow and others are noted for their chins. But when the results of the census are recorded, it is found that the nose leads all the rest.

If the cartoonist were forbidden the right to use the human nose in making his point, his task would be made more difficult and his results less satisfactory.

In determining racial origin the shape of the nose is second only to the size and shape of the orifice of the eyelids, and this characteristic ranks first only because of the large number of orientals. Nose shape has even entered anthropological discussion. The Irish race is probably an amalgamation of several racial stocks. Among the source stocks is one that came by sea from the south and probably from the Mediterranean. There is a theory that these immigrants were some of the lost tribes of Israel. Those who oppose this view say the Jewish nose, with its marked convexity, could not be the progenitor of the Irish pug nose. On the other hand, there are reports based on measurements which indicate that the Hebrew in America is changing the shape of his nose as well as the contour of his cranium.

Since the nose is such a dominating feature, and since it is a bony structure, in the main it is not easy to understand why it changes with the years. A baby at birth has almost no nose surrounding the two openings in his face, known as nostrils. As time passes the baby's nose rises up to form a perpendicular ridge, but the high bridge is not there until years after birth. There are few hook-nosed children, although there are many adults with this characteristic.

The height of the nose is largely determined by the bony partition known as the septum. This partition divides the nasal cavity into two parts and, what is more important from the standpoint of facial expression, it is the pole that holds up the circus tent. In this instance it is the wall that holds up the nose bones. Let us not overlook the importance of this nasal septum in fixing the features and, doing so, let us be more careful of it.

Chrome plating and the use of chromic acid in industry is very much on the increase. One of the untoward effects of chrome poisoning is the production of holes in the nasal septum. Sometimes this structure is pretty well destroyed in an extreme case of chromic poisoning. The chemical appears to have an affinity for the tissues of the nasal septum. Tertiary syphilis has a tendency to destroy this partition and, in doing so, to cause the bridge of the nose to cave in. The cells of the septum seem to have an affinity for this poison. Because of the importance of this partition operations on the nasal septum should not be lightly undertaken.

ALKALI, NOT ACID, ASH.

M. B. D. writes: Do fresh strawberries, raspberries, peaches and currants make an acid ash?

REPLY.

No. They are acid in the mouth, throat and stomach, but they make an alkali ash. The riper they are the less acid they make in the stomach. However, they still make alkali ash.

INFECTION OF BLADDER.

C. G. writes: What is a colon infection of the bladder and the remedy?

REPLY.

An infection with the colon bacillus. Some cases eat a ketogenic diet. Some take urinary antiseptics internally. Some require local treatment.

New Slump Relief Laws Felt as Recovery Grows

Treasury Tax Receipts Higher; R. F. C. Studies Employment Possibilities Through Assistance to Railroads; New Signs of Revival.

(Associated Press.)

Administration of the gigantic laws enacted by Congress to speed economic recovery proceeds apace these days, and yesterday brought a goodly share of developments along with more optimistic soundings.

Immersed in the many ramifications of its task, the Reconstruction Corporation devoted primary attention to the railroad situation, and how wider employment could be provided by helping it out.

The Treasury felt the first effect of the billion-dollar tax bill bulwark, learning it had taken in $2,631,000 in miscellaneous internal revenue the first of this month—or more than twice as much as on the same day a year ago. Such boosts are expected from now on, contributing thereby to balancing the budget.

The first increase in the currency under the Glass-Borah provision, which allows national banks to use Federal bonds of not more than 3½ per cent interest rate as security for currency issues, also was reported. Although the legislation allows for expansion up to almost a billion dollars, this initial reflection was very fractional, amounting to but $1,656,000 out of a total of $733,877,000 in national bank notes which were outstanding August 1.

The shoe industry was added by the Commerce Department to the list, including automobile, textile, cement and tobacco, in which it reports activity has increased.

Organization of the Federal Home Loan Bank system, to which Congress allotted $125,000,000 with a view toward facilitating home building, was up in a talk between the President and Samuel N. Reep, president of the Home Building and Loan Association of Minneapolis. Reep and William E. Best, of Pittsburgh, are among the possible appointees to the five directorships.

The Reconstruction Corporation, which has under consideration a request from Gov. Pinchot for a $10,000,000 unemployment relief loan for Pennsylvania, was asked by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, and New York Port authorities for a loan to begin a $75,000,000 tunnel under the Hudson at Thirty-eighth street in New York City.

The board of the reconstruction agency met again with a committee of rail executives and experts from the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the working out of a three-point plan for increasing employment which would be submitted to railroad executives as a unit for approval.

Financed with Federal help, it would embrace repair work of locomotives and cars; efficient maintenance of tracks and structures of the carriers and purchase of new equipment.

Atlee Pomerene, the reconstruction chairman, reported progress on the planning.

Allocation of another million dollars of the many to be spent on river and harbor work during this fiscal year, now but a month old, was made by Secretary Hurley.

(Associated Press.)

Stocks, bonds and commodities rose in price on the Nation's markets Wednesday, and reports of improved business in several sections of the country kept apace. Favorable developments included:

New York—Stocks made the most decisive advance of the year, many leaders bouncing up from 2 to 7 points. Bonds were strong and cotton higher. Copper for foreign shipment advanced 15 to 25 points.

Chicago—Wheat closed more than 1½ cents above the previous day; corn, cattle and hogs were firm to higher.

San Francisco—Standard Oil of California reported net earnings for the first six months at $6,916,544—a gain of nearly $1,300,000 over the same period last year.

New York—A profit of $104,636—compared with a loss of $34,288 in the same period of 1931—was reported by the United Carbon Co. for the first half of this year.

Washington—The Department of Commerce reported "business is looking up." Listed as optimistic indications were improved bond prices, increases in prices of a number of important commodities, halting of gold withdrawals, and a stop in stock market liquidations.

SESSION ASKS BONUS PAID WHEN POSSIBLE

Move for Cashing at Once Is Beaten as Alexandria Legion Parley Ends.

A stormy session, lasting throughout the morning and well into the afternoon, during which the bonus question aroused good-natured but heated discussions, yesterday concluded the fourteenth annual convention of the American Legion, Department of Virginia.

The convention hall in Alexandria resounded with pleas for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, but principal State leaders failed to hold the delegates in hand, and when a final vote was taken it was decided payment should be made "as soon as the Government is in a position to do so."

Charles W. Crush, of Christianburg, Va., was author of the resolution calling for bonus certificate redemption. His bill was presented in the midst of arguments on two other resolutions then pending and quickly won over leadership of advocates for immediate payment.

Asks Payment When Possible.

The resolution approved declared that "the remainder of the face value of adjusted certificates is an obligation which should be paid as soon as the Government is in a position to do so."

One of the strongest leaders in the immediate payment movement, Clyde B. Lanham, a State vice commander, finally accepted the resolution as a substitute for one he had introduced on Tuesday. He hailed the substitute as a "compromise."

Lanham's announcement, however, was assailed by Roby C. Thompson, former State commander and chairman of the resolutions committee. He made war on Lanham's own proposal Tuesday and the vice commander's acceptance of the substitute also brought fire.

Resolution Carries.

Another member of the resolutions committee, John Parker, of Southampton, Va., also attempted to down the Crush measure. He declared he was against it on the grounds it did not place the Legion on record for either payment or nonpayment of the bonus.

All efforts to quash the resolution failed and it was adopted by a vote of 155½ to 115½.

Thompson and Col. B. M. Roszel, of Winchester, lead the fight for nonpayment. Both held that the Legion as an orgaanization should not ask further cash on the bonus certificates.

Dr. Adam T. Finch, commander of the department until elections last night, was also against payment. He was not present at the session, having left the platform complaining of being ill. He was removed to Walter Reed Hospital and was reported late last night as "resting comfortably."

M. E. Bristow, of Richmond, State banking and insurance commissioner, was unopposed as the new State commander.

Vice Commanders Named.

Five vice commanders were elected. They are Robert Insko, of Quantico; C. C. Dulaney, of Christianburg; Charles C. Reams, of Culpeper; Fred Martin, of Norfolk, and W. H. Gilman, of Hopewell.

The Rev. C. W. Taylor, Narrows, Va., was chosen chaplain. Other officers will be appointed by the new commander.

A number of other resolutions were adopted before the bonus question was brought up. They included pleas for elimination or reduction to a nonprofit basis of interest on bonus loans and one against payment of disability or retirement allowances to persons whose net income from other sources exceeds $3,500 a year.

Prohibition did not come up on the floor in the form of a resolution. The subject cropped up unofficially, but no action was taken as had been expected.

Bristol was chosen by the convention as the meeting site for next year.

Junior Chamber's Head Fights Bonus

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Headed by George Olmsted, Des Moines, Iowa, national president, 1,000 delegates to the annual convention of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce arrived here today for a four-day session opening tomorrow.

A telegram from Herbert Hoover, expressing confidence in the young men of the Nation, was read at a meeting of the directors. Vigorous opposition to the payment of any part of the soldiers' bonus not earned at the present time was voiced by Olmsted in an address. He said the bonus fixed in 1924 to be paid in 1945 with interest was considered fair then and is eminently fair now with the purchasing power of the dollar increased.

"The country overstepped its bounds of reason to expect that a living is owed to the man who quit the service in good health and in later years became disabled," he said.

Body of Carlson, Slain Veteran, Is Unclaimed

The body of Eric Carlson, bonus marcher fatally wounded in the melee here last Thursday, was still unclaimed last night at the District Morgue. District veterans' groups plan a military funeral and burial at Arlington, but so far no word has been heard from Carlson's relatives.

Carlson was from Chicago. A brother, Dr. John Carlson, of Oakland, Calif., was notified Tuesday of the death that day of the veteran. K. O. Carlson, of 5241 Forty-second street northwest, was then notified by police, at the request of Dr. Carlson, to take charge of the body, but he said he knew nothing about the veteran whose name is the same as his.

Resigned B. E. F. Officer Is Recruiting New Army

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Capt. Doak Carter, who resigned today as chief of staff of the B. E. F., announced tonight that he is recruiting a force from the disbanding army and will lead them to Huntington, W. Va., immediately.

Capt. Carter held numerous conferences with groups of veterans who are disgruntled because they were ordered to leave their squalid camp on the outskirts of Johnstown.

Hurley Defends Operation Of Army Against B. E. F.

Holds Evacuation Effected With "Unparalleled Humanity and Kindness;" District Heads and Police Before Grand Jury Today.

A formal defense of Federal action in routing the bonus army with military force was issued yesterday by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley on the eve of resumption by the District grand jury of its inquiry into the disorders here last Thursday.

The District Commissioners and police officials will be questioned today by the grand jury. Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, and District Attorney Leo A. Rover will conduct the probe.

Vincent B. Costello Post, No. 15, American Legion, has passed a resolution condemning "the brutal, un-American and unlawful manner" in which the veterans were driven from the city. It was the second official stand taken by a local service men's group with regard to the eviction of the bonus marchers.

"Unparalleled Humanity."

Secretary Hurley's statement, approximately 2,000 words in length, said the evacuation of the bonus army was effected with "unparalleled humanity and kindness." The statement was issued in answer to "apparently deliberate propaganda and misrepresentations that are being circulated."

"The statements made to the effect that the billets of the marchers were fired by the troops is a falsehood," said Secretary Hurley's statement. "The billets were fired by retreating radicals. The tents that were burned belonged to the District of Columbia National Guard and had been loaned to the men who burned them."

The troops did burn shacks and other structures which already were partially burned, said Secretary Hurley, in the interests of sanitation. "The shacks and tents at Anacostia," he said, "were set on fire by the bonus marchers before the troops crossed the Anacostia Bridge."

Secretary Hurley reviewed, in his statement, the advent of the bonus army here and summarized the events of their stay. He told of how the Commissioners on July 28 advised the President that civil authorities could no longer maintain law and order. This brought about his ordering the troops in to the city, said the statement.

Under Red Influences.

"After the arrival of the United States troops, a force of about 600 men, not one shot was fired and no person was seriously injured. Law and order was promptly restored."

The statement said that prior to the evacuation of the genuine veterans—through loans on compensation certificates—inspection of the camp enrollment here showed that approximately one-third of those present were not veterans.

"Those who were not veterans, and many veterans themselves, became more and more under the influence of the number of so-called red, radical agitators after many of the genuine veterans had left."

After the police began eviction of the veterans on the Pennsylvania avenue camp, "definite organized attack of several thousand men was then made upon the police," he said.

Secretary Hurley denied that women and children were evacuated by the cavalry and infantry called out by President Hoover, saying, on the contrary, buildings occupied by women and children were protected, and no one was permitted to molest them.

Last Radical Released.

The District Commissioners yesterday held a conference with Acting Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West, after which Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, and Mr. West went to the Department of Justice and conferred with Attorney General Mitchell.

It was learned that data secured by the Commissioners for presentation to the grand jury investigating the riots was turned over to the Attorney General. The information was said to constitute evidence for use in the prosecution of persons alleged to have incited the bonus trouble, but its exact nature could not be learned.

The last of the alleged "reds" arrested in a round-up last week was discharged from custody yesterday just prior to a court hearing on a writ of habeas corpus that had been sworn out for him. The man, Havanes Macklooviani, his record showed, had served time in Leavenworth Penitentiary as an enemy alien, but there was no evidence to hold him. Fourteen others had been released Tuesday.

David Levinson, attorney who came here from Pittsburgh to represent the Communists, had a mild argument with Mr. Rover when he insisted upon concrete proof of the liberation of the fourteen men who were released Tuesday. Justice James M. Proctor, before whom the argument occurred, directed Rover to file with the court a statement setting forth the release of the men. That was done.

Virginia Farm Offered.

Commander Walter W. Waters, of the bonus army, said at his headquarters here last night that he had not yet received word from the various States as to veterans' concentration sites. A telegram was received from Edward F. Atwell, former commander of Camp Marks, who Waters had sent to Johnstown, Pa. It read: "Situation fine. Carter resigns. (Carter has been one of Waters' lieutenants, but quit because of disagreement over the dispersal order of the commander.) Men cheered and promised to go home tomorrow. Through McCloskey contracted seat in passenger train for every one. Also food en route."

An Associated Press dispatch from Los Angeles said Mrs. De Nelson Smith, of that city, had informed George W. Rochester, candidate for Congress, that she would be willing to allow free use of her 1,200-acre farm, 30 miles southwest of Washington, to the bonus army. Bonus officials here had heard nothing of the proffer.

BETHLEHEM STEEL CO. GIVING B. E. F. TRAIN FARES HOME

squalid Camp McCloskey. California and Illinois contingents are leaving tonight on a special Baltimore & Ohio train. The evacuation of West Coast units is expected to be completed by noon tomorrow.

Much sulking and grumbling accompanied the evacuation. Capt. Doak Carter, chief of staff who resigned today after a split with Commander Walter W. Waters, announced he is organizing a group of veterans and that he will lead them to a camp at Huntington, W. Va.

After conferring with groups of veterans for several hours tonight, Carter left for Huntington to make preliminary arrangements for the arrival of his men.

McCloskey Speaks.

Camp McCloskey, where the veterans rallied after disorders in Washington last week, surrendered to the inevitable after being told of Doak Carter's resignation as chief of staff and Commander Walter W. Waters' order to disband.

Anxiety was apparent at the camp, official field staff headquarters in Mayor Eddie McCloskey's office and the police department as the leaders of many units reported their forces are sulking and grumbling.

Mayor McCloskey addressed the veterans today just after Carter quit. He told them he will see that they are given transportation to their homes. Several veterans made verbal attacks on the mayor.

Returning to the camp after the broad-shouldered mayor had left, Carter urged the men to stay.

Preparations are being made at police headquarters to handle any emergency.

The about-face in the attitude toward McCloskey surprised his aids. He had been given an ovation when he appeared at the field.

The mayor had told the crowd that they will be given passenger transportation to their homes through an arrangement he and several Johnstown business men have made with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. He told the men Waters' orders are for them to leave and he urged them to "stick" with their commander and obey.

Many who came in battered automobiles and trucks already have begun to pull out.

Break Comes to Head.

Today the break between the Carter and Waters factions came to a head. Carter came to field headquarters for the first time in two days and was met by McCloskey who demanded a showdown on "these wild reports." Carter explained he had talked with Waters and that the commander urged disbanding and then changed his mind.

Carter said he quit because his views clashed with those of Waters.

He advised against disbanding and, as the veterans listened to him sullenly, Eddie Atwell, a representative of Waters, and McCloskey arrived.

Atwell mounted the rear of a truck and said he had been sent by Waters to urge the veterans to go home.

"You can do better in your home States," he said. "Continued concentration would be an imposition on any one State or community. We are still working on a haven for you."

B. E. F. Paper to Continue.

"If you leave the camp, our organization will not disintergrate," Atwell continued. "Headquarters will remain in Washington. The organization work will continue in each State. The B. E. F. paper will be continued."

McCloskey followed Atwell with a plea that the veterans carry out Waters' orders. He praised Waters as a "great leader" and denounced Carter, whom he said "sits around the hotel with his boots on a chair."

Baltimore & Ohio offices announced the first evacuation train will be made up on a siding not far from the camp and will leave either "late tonight or the first thing in the morning."

Snake Man of B. E. F. Seeks Reptile Buyer

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The "snake man" of the B. E. F., Ed Lucas, "no home, but from California," is having so much trouble with his reptiles that he believes he'll sell them—if he can find a buyer.

Lucas is anxious to leave Johnstown, now that the B. E. F. is disbanding, but he doesn't know what to do with the snakes he has been lugging around with him.

The snakes, Lucas says, are his most valuable property and that's why he took them along on the march to Washington and on the retreat to Johnstown.

Group Packs Belongings And Leaves Waterbury

Waterbury, Md., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Forty-three men and women, who started to build a permanent home for the bonus expeditionary force in the wooded hills near here, today packed their belongings and departed.

Some started for their homes in various parts of the country, while a few accepted offers of employment.

The evacuation was made quietly and orderly after Capt. Edward McK. Johnson, of the State police, and a squad of nine officers arrived at the colony to inform the campers the plan for the haven had been abandoned.

Veteran, in Bonus Rioting Here, Dies

Had Tuberculosis and Said He Was Tear-Gassed and Hit by Brick.

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—William Gunn, 40, a member of the bonus expeditionary force driven by Federal troops from Washington last week, died in the Marine Hospital here today. In seeking treatment on his arrival in Baltimore Saturday, he told physicians at the Mercy Hospital, where he first went, he had been injured and gassed in the fighting at Washington.

He was found to be suffering from tuberculosis and was sent to the Marine Hospital. Dr. Richard H. Creel, medical officer in charge of the Marine Hospital, said today he had been unable to verify Gunn's statement that his ribs were fractured when struck by a brick.

Dr. Creel expressed the opinion Gunn died from natural causes. He said Gunn contracted pneumonia.

SEABURY BITTERLY ATTACKS DEFENSE MADE BY WALKER

presidential campaigning has been delayed by the case and there has been widespread speculation about the effect the outcome might have on the State and national political situation.

Seabury dwelt at length on Walker's contention that the charges against him were not grounds for removal because they concerned his previous term. Seabury wrote:

"It is a sorry sight indeed to see a person occupying high public office, whose honor is impugned, taking the position that the people must suffer him to continue in his public office because he was fortunate enough not to be caught in time."

Seabury made detailed rebuttal to every phase of Walker's defense and branded the mayor's explanations "false," "not satisfactory," "attempted excuses," "evasive" and "not real answers."

The mayor's contention he could be removed only for acts of his present term drew most of Seabury's fire.

"There is no provision in the constitution or elsewhere limiting the governor's power of removal of mayors," the committee counsel wrote. He quoted eight pages of legal, gubernatorial and legislative authorities and stressed his contention that the derelictions charged to Walker had not been known publicly at the time of the last election.

"Any cause deemed sufficient by the governor," he wrote, "is sufficient caused for the removal of a mayor.

"Premium on Dishonesty."

"We can not believe in this day and age," he continued, "the governor will lay down a rule by which a mayor, if guilty of misconduct in office, may avoid removal on the technical ground that he was not caught and exposed within the term in which the misconduct occurred. We believe rather that the governor will adopt the logical, cogent and just rule enunciated by the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts in the Pelletier case:

"'That there may have been conduct in the office prior to the last election of such a nature that the public good may require, and that sufficient cause may exist for, removal.'

"Any other rule would put a premium not on honesty in office but on concealment of dishonesty in office; it would make the test of the right to hold office not fitness, but the ability to conceal unfitness. * * *

"To us it seems shocking that a mayor should even be heard to urge that for malfeasance and misfeasance in office, indeed for corruption in office, he may escape removal because he succeeded in concealing his unfitness long enough for another election to intervene. * * *

Significance of Admission.

"The plea of limitations is not obligatory. The admission that it carries can not be lost.

"The plea of limitations is of no moment unless the acts set forth in the specifications are true, and if they are, then the mayor's denials before the committee and his answer to the governor are not truthful, and an attempt to deceive the governor, the public and the committee has been committed during his present term of office."

A mayor, Seabury wrote "is not entitled to any more 'coincidences,' to the benefit of any more doubts, to the privilege of any more improbable explanations than any other person, nor is he entitled to have his word taken in preference to that of numerous others simply because he is mayor."

In discussing the mayor's denial that Russell Sherwood, missing accountant, handled nearly $1,000,000 in financial transactions for him, Seabury wrote:

"It will be readily observed that whenever expenditures were shown to have been made by Sherwood for the mayor's benefit, the mayor's explanation was always the same—cash from the safe.

"This explanation differs from those made by lesser members of the political hierarchy only, as the mayor was at pains to emphasize, in that it involves:

"'Not a vault, not a tin box—a safe in my home.'

"The governor has once rejected this explanation somewhat differently expressed—will it now be accepted?"

Seabury referred to the removal of Thomas Farley, Tammany leader, from the office of sheriff, after he had given a tin box in his home as the explanation of where large sums of money came from.

"The record and the documentary evidence clearly establish that Sherwood was the mayor's financial agent * * * continuously over a long period of time," Seabury said, after oral testimony to that effect was impossible because only Walker and Sherwood, who is still missing, could supply it.

"If all these transactions were not the mayor's," Seabury asked in outlining payments he said Sherwood made on the mayor's behalf, "why should Sherwood have fled, giving out originally the false statement that he was leaving the city only to go on a honeymoon, but, as subsequently shown, leaving the city to stay away for a period which has already reached almost a year? * * *

Story Called Afterthought.

"What man leaves his home, his job and his friends, goes into hiding and subjects himself to an adjudication of contempt and a fine of $50,000, as Sherwood has, unless he has something to conceal? Has there been any suggestion from any one that Sherwood has anything to conceal except his relations with the mayor?"

Seabury charged that Walker could have reached Sherwood in Mexico had he wished to.

Walker's explanation that the $246,000 he obtained from a joint brokerage account with Paul Block, newspaper publisher, did not constitute a gratuity, but was a profit from an account in which he (Walker) had a joint liability, drew this comment from Seabury:

"The present claim of the mayor is a palpable afterthought, born of his realization that his acceptance of these moneys as a 'beneficence or gratuity' was improper. * * * The mayor's answer to this specification is, in plain language, false. Its falsity accentuates and aggravates the impropriety involved in the whole transaction."

Roosevelt Reads Rebuttal

Albany N. Y., Aug 3 (A.P.).—Samuel Seabury's rebuttal to the reply of Mayor Walker of New York to charges that he was unfit to hold office was delivered late today to Gov. Roosevelt at the executive mansion.

The governor said he wanted about two hours to look over the document before making it public. He announced that it would be released at New York City at 6 p. m., E. S. T.

Oren Herwitz, young assistant counsel to Seabury in the legislative investigation of New York City affairs, brought the document to the executive mansion. The governor had no comment other than to fix the time Seabury's rebuttal might be released.

Seabury's rebuttal was delivered six days after Walker's reply, in which he justified his administration.

Engineer Posey, 49, Is Found Suicide

California County Surveyor Was Under Inquiry in Free-Lot Scheme.

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The body of County Surveyor George A. Posey, 49, widely known engineer, was found in the garage of his home here today and police said he had committed suicide by inhaling the exhaust of his automobile.

Investigation of Posey's office was recommended yesterday by nine members of a superior court jury which convicted three men of operating a "free lot" scheme. Testimony at the trial disclosed Posey had received $20,000 or more for subdividing the property of the three men.

Posey, using a ship dry dock in San Francisco, developed a method of precasting concrete tunnel segments, moulded into 203-foot lengths and weighing 5,000 to 10,000 tons each.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Miss Ethel Kauf, 20, a pretty, red-haired girl from Cleveland, Ohio, committed suicide today when she jumped from a room on the fourth floor of the Murray Hill Hotel.

Her body was found in the rear courtyard. In a note she had directed that her purse, containing a watch but no money, be turned over to a sister "at the Y. W. C. A."

"I am sorry I am going to cause a disturbance and scandal," she wrote. "I hope and pray this four-story drop kills me, but if it doesn't please do not notify my sister. You had better let the city bury me, as I don't believe my family has any money left. Thank you."

THE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

With the reservations which the United States has made, its participation in the forthcoming international economic conference can not but meet public approval. The betterment of world conditions would be a direct stroke for betterment of domestic conditions.

The United States agrees to participate on the understanding that silver will be one of the subjects discussed, and that war debts, reparations, and specific tariff rates shall not be considered.

International exchange is disordered, and perhaps the governments can find some method for stabilizing it. Silver is a commodity which can be used more widely to advantage as money if an agreement can be made which would not disturb existing monetary systems.

Better arrangements for distribution of commodities between countries with a surplus and others with a shortage ought to be possible. This problem involves tariffs, of course, and on this point the United States does well to impose the condition that specific tariff rates shall not be discussed. Tariff policies are a suitable subject of discussion, not that an international conference can be expected to evolve a treaty calling for tariff changes, but because a free conference may result in voluntary adjustments by foreign nations. That the United States tariff will be modified is out of the question. The protection of domestic interests is more important than all the commerce that might be developed by tariff concessions. The American standard of living is based upon the protective tariff.

Much work must be done by the experts in preparing a program for the economic conference if anything valuable is to result from the deliberations. Mere expositions of national hardships and mutual exchanges of sympathy will get nowhere. When it comes to preparing plans for specific agreements, the trouble begins. If the preparatory committee can work out a feasible program, not too ambitious, and not involving political questions, the conference may be successful in easing international credit, helping to stabilize exchange, removing unnecessary trade barriers and discriminations, and facilitating commodity movements. The benefits to be derived by the United States probably will be small and indirect, but it is proper that this country should take part in the effort to improve world economic conditions. A rise in commodity prices resulting from intelligent action by governments would be of benefit to the United States. But this is a consummation which can hardly be hoped for, in view of the inevitable injection of political objectives by European politicians.

PROSPERITY MAGIC.

One of the miracles of the age is that hard times persisted for three years while the entire country was literally abounding in remedies. Guaranteed cures have been offered by the thousand. Not all of them have come from the brains of scheming politicians. Many have been conceived by obscure geniuses who are living ahead of their times. For the most part the stupidity of governments has prevented the application of these panaceas. Hence, they stand out as gems of ideology to be passed on as a legacy for some future depressed civilization which may be able to appreciate their possibilities.

One remedy that has just been offered by T. M. Kehoe, sage of Atlantic, Mass., puts many of the older panaceas to shame. The plan in itself is the essence of simplicity. Yet it is kaleidoscopic in its objectives. The author is not satisfied with ordinary prosperity; so he has fashioned a cure to restore "better than normal conditions." Why should one stop after merely abolishing the depression? In addition to bringing dollars out of hoarding, creating new hope and courage, stimulating business, augmenting purchasing power, supplying revenue to the Federal Treasury and aiding the postal system, the magician of Atlantic would elevate the standards of business and ethics, reduce crime and put a stop to racketeering.

One would not be justified in attempting to enumerate or explain all the benefits that would flow out over the land as a result of this simple device. Suffice it to note what the "cure" is. This time it is not beer that is seen at the rainbow's end, but a simple roulette wheel to be operated by Uncle Sam. Tickets would be sold through the postoffices and national banks throughout the Nation every month. When all the money was in, 20 wheels of chance would turn for 20 different sections of the country; 5,300 prizes, ranging from $1,000,000 down to $500, would be paid, and $30,100,000 of the proceeds would be dumped into the Treasury.

New purchasers would be created (not a word about the 99,994,700 people who would lose), rackets and gambling places would be run out of business, happiness would again be restored to the people, and the Government would roll in wealth. If any one has the audacity to question the morality, the practicability or the wisdom of Uncle Sam gambling his way out of hard times let him be reminded that "half the gratification is in anticipation." What more needs be said? Here is new magic that puts Aladdin's lamp in the class of a sputtering candle.

LAMONT AND CHAPIN.

President Hoover voices the opinion of the business world in expressing appreciation of the services of Secretary Lamont and regret that he should feel compelled to resign to look after his personal affairs. The Secretary of Commerce has been indefatigable in performing exacting and manifold duties, but beyond mere industry he has manifested a business and commercial statesmanship that has enhanced the usefulness of his department. Mr. Lamont has contributed much to the sturdy persistence with which American business has wrestled with adverse conditions, always knowing that these conditions would change for the better. He has been resourceful and hopeful, without indulging in visionary prophecies. He leaves the Department of Commerce with the respect of the American business world, and with the best wishes of the great personnel of his department and his associates in Washington.

The choice of Roy D. Chapin of Detroit as successor to Mr. Lamont seems to be fortunate. Mr. Chapin has had wide experience and has demonstrated exceptional capacity. He has a wonderful opportunity, thanks to the strong position of the department as a result of Mr. Lamont's labors.

FINIS FOR THE B. E. F.

Secretary of War Hurley has issued a statement that should put a stop to the scurrilous propaganda which is broadcast by radicals as a result of the bonus riot. In place of deliberate falsehood, Secretary Hurley presents facts from official records and actual observance of last week's fracas. There is no longer any excuse for misinformation on the subject. Those who persist in demagogic denunciation of the method used to quell the bonus riot are making common cause with the reds who are trying to promote unrest and violence.

Inspection of the enrollment lists in the bonus camps showed that approximately one-third of those present, even before the homeward exodus began, were not veterans. After 5,500 actual veterans had taken advantage of the transportation furnished by the Government, the percentage of veterans left was considerably smaller. Only the irreconcilables and the agitators remained after all hope for securing the bonus was gone. They had other reasons for staying in Washington, and for defying the Government.

The sending of troops to the scene when the mob spirit took control of the bonus marchers was a necessary proceeding. The District Commissioners advised President Hoover that a riot was in progress and that the local authorities were unable to cope with it. If the President had disregarded their plea for aid in the preservation of order, as the radicals contend that he should have done, mob rule would have been triumphant. Many lives might have been lost, President Hoover took the only possible course that was consistent with public welfare and safety.

Charges of brutality on the part of the troops had already been exploded, but Secretary Hurley adds emphasis to the record. His directions to Gen. MacArthur instructed him to "use all humanity consistent with the due execution of this order." Women and children were not evacuated by the troops. On the contrary, the building occupied by them was protected by the troops. The Red Cross immediately set to work caring for the unfortunate families of bonus marchers, and is now financing their return journey home.

Some of the bonus army leaders have come to see the indefensible position they occupied in Washington and are pleading with the remnants of the destitute bonus army to return to their former homes. Gov. Ritchie has wisely obstructed their chimerical scheme of establishing a colony in Maryland. Mayor McCloskey, of Johnstown, is urging the army to depart. No community should be asked to sustain a destitute horde of strangers. The bonus army must disperse. As time passes the wisdom of President Hoover in ousting the riotous bonus marchers from Washington becomes more apparent.

ACCIDENT SUPREMACY.

The United States maintains supremacy in one direction of which it can not be proud. It leads the world in the number of fatal accidents, not only in number, but in proportion to population. Last year 97,000 persons met violent deaths in this country. The nation's average is an annual toll of more than 80 accidental deaths for each 100,000 of population. Neighbor Canada is next with 63, but England shows a rate of only 42; Italy, 33; and Denmark, only 24. France is rated in the 54 class, but homicides are included as accidents.

The automobile continues to be responsible for the greatest number of accidental deaths. This toll last year was 33,500, an increase of about 600 over 1930, notwithstanding a considerable decrease in motor mileage. It is an increase of 10,000 since 1926. The figures gathered by the National Safety Council show that in addition to fatal motor accidents there were no less than 1,200,000 persons who suffered non-fatal injuries, of which 100,000 were of a permanent character. The wage loss, medical expense, cost of insurance, etc., in connection with motor accidents is estimated at $700,000,000 for 1931. The District of Columbia is credited with 159 motor vehicle fatalities last year, an increase of 25 over the year before.

The Safety Council compiles many interesting tables regarding accidents. It shows that proportionately, nearly three times as many men are killed in accidents as women; that while accidental deaths rate next to heart disease among males as the cause of death, they are in eighth place among females. Next to automobile accidents in number are fatal accidents that occur in homes. They numbered 29,000, as against only 17,000 industrial fatalities. For every fatal accident there occur nearly 100 non-fatal accidents, in which about 4 per cent result in permanent disability. Deaths among industrial workers and railway fatalities are less, drivers of commercial vehicles are charged with fewer accidents, but the private driver grows worse. The States with drivers' license laws continue to make the best showing. The terrible yearly loss of life and property from avoidable motor accidents is eloquent evidence of the necessity for uniform and stricter examinations for driving licenses and for better traffic regulation.

COMMON SENSE DIETS.

Food faddists are losing caste. The intensive campaign to enforce the counting of calories and vitamines does not appear to have made any material change in the human race. In the case of an excess, or a deficiency in weight, knowledge of the specific values of certain kinds of food is useful in determining a corrective diet, but for the average normal person it is now conceded that man thrives on any ordinary food that happens to be available. Many vegetarians get along perfectly well without meat. Extended tests show that Eskimos are not the only ones who can live on a carnivorous diet.

Extremes are not to be recommended as a rule, and not a few investigators hold that man's natural tastes and cravings in most cases insure a sufficiently balanced variety of food to satisfy all necessary bodily elements. Usually, says Dr. Rabinowitch, of the Montreal General Hospital, people need to know very little about the ash content of their orange juice, the caloric value of bacon and eggs, or carbohydrate, fat, protein or mineral contents. The doctor believes the average individual is entirely too gullible and easily impressed by the recommendations of pseudo-scientists and advocates of certain foods.

Interested endeavors to encourage the imbibing of quantities of citrus fruit juice probably will do no harm, and it is a delightful beverage at all times, but the necessity of such consumption to avoid acidosis is not apparent, since that is a comparatively rare ailment. The widely ramified investigations by life insurance companies of health and habits have never resulted in a word of caution regarding the drinking of coffee. The most intense research has never shown that milk is a necessity for adult mammals. The much touted whole wheat bread is proved to be less digestible and to contain less nutrition than white, while as for vitamin B, one can hardly escape it in a number of other products.

Judging by the importance placed upon liberal doses of certain vitamines by advertisers over the radio, one might be constrained to wonder why the millions of bygone days did not perish through their own ignorance. But the comforting assurance comes from rational experts who have no patent foods or medicines to sell, that today, as of yore, mankind is much more likely to suffer from eating too much than from failure to make a certain selection of food.

As the first man to make a cross-country trip in a flivver, Roy Chapin is the ideal man to find a way out of the depression.

"BOOTS AND SADDLES"

By E. W. TEITZEL, in the Los Angeles Times.

Much newspaper space has been utilized recently to tell about the horses taking part in the Olympic games, but little has been said about the men who will put them through their paces. Yet the training of the riders is far more lengthy and involved than that given the horses. It varies, of course, in the various competing countries, but in the case of the Army officers who compose the United States equestrian team they had to prove not only their proficiency in horsemanship but in a score of unallied subjects as well.

The cavalry school where the United States' equestrian squad, almost without exception, was trained, is located at Fort Riley, Kans. Its chief mission is to instruct in the coordination of the cavalry with the other arms of the military service. For this purpose units of the Field Artillery, Engineer, Signal and Air Corps are stationed there and the student officer receives instruction in all of them.

While absorbing all of this varied education the candidate for equestrian honors is called upon to do a little instructing of his own. At the beginning of the course in September he is assigned a green horse, one usually unbroken to the saddle, and is supposed to (and usually does) turn him over the following June a gaited mount, fair jumper and "high school" horse.

The ten-day graduation period is one long round of equestrian programs, including a racing meet and steeplechase, in which the student officer demonstrates not only his skill as horseman and rider, but his proficiency with saber and revolver and his ability as a foot-racer. At least two of the events call for fleetness of foot. The concluding number is a night ride of 50 to 70 miles over an uncharted course, much of it on the 19,000-acre military reservation where even civilians who have traveled it for half a century by the light of day are apt to get lost at night.

The 60 or more officers of the student personnel are handed directions that would be confusing even to a person familiar with the landmarks and terrain. They study these, race afoot for the stables where their horses are waiting and start out, each "on his own," forbidden to ask questions or seek information from any source. During the course of the night ride they are required to report at four or five control stations. The time between stations is prescribed, but watches are taboo, the contestant depending on his own judgment and the gait of his mount. If he is lucky and doesn't get lost, he may finish the ride in seven to nine hours. The stragglers require twelve hours or more. But even if he has finished first and approximated the time between controls, the contestant hasn't won the race. His mount must, the following afternoon, be judged in good physical condition.

There Is Hope!

POST HASTE.

Senator Borah has a new game of solitaire drop the handkerchief; he has selected his presidential candidate, but won't tell whoseit.

Foreign contestants at Los Angeles must appreciate that American winners are doing their best to add local color to the Olympic games.

Taking office as chairman of the R. F. C., Mr. Pomerene affirms a policy of "no partisanship, no sectionalism, no favoritism." But, of course, human nature is weak.

Doing its bit to keep alive national legends, a local bank issues a brochure on "What is money?"

The senator from Idaho is on a speaking tower to explain to the native yokels that if the war debts are transferred to Americans they will be cancelled.

"Sues to dissolve coal combine as seeking to boost prices." Thus evidently encroaching on the prerogatives of wheat.

Bolivia says: "Historically we are entitled to a bank on the River Paraguay." And now they bank on the army making history repeat.

Prize bonehead psychology: Partisan misrepresentation in campaign speeches. Yes, by either side.

After passing through the American eliminator it is to be feared that the agenda of the economic conference retains little interest for European nations, except that they will hope to blow the lid off, regardless.

There is no longer any doubt about Walter Chrysler being a man of parts—he has just ordered $5,000,000 worth.

Gov. Ritchie's relations with the bonus army will remain cordial as long as they remain distant relations.

Here's trusting, of course, that the market was just taking a roller coaster ride to cool off, rather than embarking on the old toboggan again.

Commander Waters calls upon the bonus army to disband. And he did not even know how near he was to the end of his role of czar of an undisciplined crowd over which he had no real authority and no way of enforcing that which he assumed.

If all this man-aged recovery doesn't get results we'll put the women on the job.

For a week the Atlantic bluefish population will suffer, or my name's not PAUL HUDSON.

JUST FOLKS

TROPHIES.

There's a moose head in the hall
And a dead fish on the wall,
And a stuffed owl on the mantelpiece
And birds in a shining case.
There's an antlered deer upstairs
And a mounted fox which shares
With a partridge prone at its wily feet
A nice mahogany base.

There's a maid each morn who must Go round the rooms to dust
And day by day on her weary face
There is ever a dismal scowl,
And this is the song she sings:
"Dead deers are dreadful things!
And I hate fish on a shining board
And the wings of a mounted owl!

"Oh, if ever a man I wed,
May he care for books instead
Of moose and mountain goats and deer
And ducks in a glassy dome;
May his hobby be postage stamps
Instead of the Northern camps,
For I've had my fill of dusting things
Which a hunting man brings home."

There Will Be No More Farming When Nobody Saves Seed

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Do you regard yourself as a responsible citizen of a free country, or merely as an onlooker?

If you knew that some policy now in operation would ruin the country, would you make an effort to change it?

If history should convince you that our present policy leads inevitably to national suicide, would you try to do anything about it?

The evidence to convince you is easily found. If you have gone to school long enough to acquire some knowledge of arithmetic, a brief examination of our present policy will convince you that it is fatal.

What do you think would happen—

But first, what is capital? Capital is surplus wealth. It is savings. It is income that a man will not or cannot consume. It is accumulated and unspent wealth available for the business of manufacture, commerce and building.

Now what do you think would happen if something should destroy all accumulated wealth? What would happen if no man could earn more than his daily bread and nightfall found all of us without a cent of surplus?

The answer is obvious. There would be no manufacture, no commerce, no building, for there would be no money to finance these things.

If depriving a mule of all feed makes it worthless, what happens if you give it only half enough feed?

If the destruction of all capital brings immediate and complete ruination, what happens when most of the capital is destroyed?

In normal times, America's capital enabled her to do more than half of the world's business—to finance great enterprises, vast industries, continued expansion. It provided jobs for all and paid good wages.

Now Government confiscates surplus wealth or permits it to hide in tax-exempt securities.

You see the result. A dollar seized by the Government is a dollar made useless. And a dollar in tax-exempt securities is an idle dollar. Our surplus wealth, on which all prosperity depends, is taken out of harness and retired to pasture.

The result may be slow in coming, but it is sure. France tried that policy in time of Napoleon and strangled herself in a few months. England tried it and bled herself white.

There can be no argument about it. The result is as inevitable as the sum of two and two. You simply can't plant a crop next year if you consume or waste all of this year's harvest.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Battle of Spokesmen.

New York Times.

If Gov. Roosevelt sticks to his rule that he will respond to no attack "except from the gentleman who is running against me," he may never have an opportunity to come to personal grips with the President during the campaign. In 1928 Mr. Hoover never mentioned Mr. Smith's name; it was as if he had no idea who was his opponent. Since it is natural to pursue a policy vindicated by use, the likelihood is that the President will avoid mention of Gov. Roosevelt by name. In his speech last Saturday night the Democratic nominee did not personify the Republican ticket; he spoke only of "the administration."

Mr. Roosevelt may find it hard to adhere to this method. But since Mr. Hoover probably will, and one man can not fight a duel, the campaign may turn into a diminishing battle of spokesmen.

Preelection Forecasts.

Topeka Capital.

The chairman of the Democratic national committee is now busy sending out election forecasts. They are progressively optimistic. In his last he virtually claims all the States for Roosevelt. This, of course, is old stuff. It has always been customary for political managers to claim everything and concede nothing.

Mr. Farley's political forecasts may hearten hungry Democrats who have long been separated from the Government pay roll, but they will have very little if any effect on the election in November. The election or defeat of Gov. Roosevelt will be determined in all probability by conditions not yet developed, but which will develop between now and November.

Collecting Something.

Boston Herald.

Speaking of debts, one diplomat at Lausanne urged Americans to pause and collect their thoughts. And that, it seems, is about all they're likely to collect.

National Economy League.

Detroit News.

Many who have seen Congress succumb time and again to the pressure of organized lobbies for special interests have pleaded for a people's lobby to look out for the interests of the Nation. Something of the sort—only it is not and will not be a lobby—has now been organized. It is called the National Economy League, and it is sponsored by some of our finest citizens.

Rear Admiral Byrd postponed his second trip to the South Pole to head the organization. Archie Roosevelt becomes secretary of its advisory committee. The council is headed by Calvin Coolidge, and also includes Alfred E. Smith, Elihu Root, Newton D. Baker, Gen. Pershing and Admiral Sims.

The National Economy League grew out of a protest movement of war veterans against paying pensions and relief to soldiers who suffered no disability in the war. When a petition signed by nearly half a million people brought no response from Congress, the prime movers went into action on a more impressive scale.

Anatomical.

Atchison Globe.

In 1928 there was a whispering campaign about Al Smith's religion. This year there is a whispering campaign about Franklin D. Roosevelt's legs. But just now the most important thing to consider is a candidate's backbone.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Right of Petition Does Not Include Right to Disturb Public Peace. Lying Communist Propaganda Regarding Bonus Riot.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: No clear-thinking citizen, Democrat or Republican, can fail to disapprove the attempt that is being made to discredit the administration for maintaining public order in the District of Columbia when the bonus mob threatened to overpower the police.

In their distress the deluded bonus men have the sympathy of all humane citizens. Their constitutional right "peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances" is not questioned. But to assume that the right of petition includes the right to disturb public peace and defy lawful authority is absurd.

It is not likely that in the start the bonus march was directly organized by communistic workers, although it is natural enough that the reds should take advantage of it.

The Moscow reds are spreading through the world the false statement that the United States is in the throes of revolution and that the Government is shooting down defenseless and peaceable citizens who are starving. Americans can not afford to give aid and comfort to such lying propaganda. W. T. T.

How George Washington Stood on Question of Maintaining Law and Order.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I ask that you publish the following letter from George Washington to Henry Lee in Congress, dated October 31, 1786? The occasion of this letter was dilly-dallying with the Shays Rebellion in Massachusetts. Since so many editors and clergymen are harking back to what Washington would do in our bonus crisis, let this letter, which might have been written yesterday, show Washington's attitude to law and order:

"You talk, my good sir, of employing influence to appease the present tumult in Massachusetts. I know not where that influence is to be found, or if attainable, that it would be the proper remedy for the disorders. Influence is not government. Let us have one by which our lives, liberties and properties will be secured, or let us know the worst at once. Under these impressions, my humble opinion is that there is a call for decision. Know precisely what the insurgents aim at. If they have real grievances, redress them if possible; or acknowledge the justice of them and your inability to do it in the present moment. If they have not, employ the force of government against them at once. If this is inadequate, all will be convinced that the superstructure is bad or wants support. To be more exposed in the eyes of the world and more contemptible than we already are is hardly possible. To delay one or the other of these is to exasperate on the one hand, or give confidence on the other, and will add to their numbers. For like snow-balls, such bodies increase by every movement, unless there is something in the way to obstruct and crumble them before the weight is irresistible."

Praises McGuffey's Old Reader, Which Struck Sturdy Blows at Old Davil Mars.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In training the children of our community for a public reading contest designed to promote world peace, I searched through 20 series of school readers for selections. I found after assigning the readings that one-half of them were taken from the famous McGuffey Readers. In my immense collection of old school readers, I have the McGuffey's in four editions. The McGuffey brothers struck terrific blows at Mars, the race assassin. For moral instruction these readers have never been surpassed. It is natural that interest in them should keep up long after other books have taken their place in schools.

Saloonless Age Foreseen by Observer Who Notes Drift of Public Sentiment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There is at least one reason why an attitude of despondency is not justifiable at this time, and that is the fact that our public leaders seem to be almost unanimous in the declaration that the saloon must not come back. This applies to wets as well as drys and to the general run of political observers.

Free from the evil influence of the pre-Volstead barroom, it seems absolutely certain that a salutary economic readjustment is bound to come. Worth while and permanent political reconstructions may have a slow development, but I expect good times once more in a saloonless future. W. F. P.

Former Service Man Praises Dispersion of the Bonus Marchers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The solid and substantial citizens of Washington and all the rest of the Nation rejoice that President Hoover exhibited patience, and that, when patience ceased to be a virtue, he had courage to put an end to defiance of law and order by the bonus men.

As a former service man, I mingled with many of the so-called veterans quite often while they were here, and I noticed that the larger portion of them were radicals. In my opinion their gathering was a fertile field for bolshevik leaders to sow the seed of rebellion and communism.

All praise to President Hoover and to the peace officers of the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and to the personnel of the United States Army for speeding their exit.

RAIN BALKS VICTORY BY THIRD BATTALION

Camp Ritchie Regiment to Execute Elaborate Maneuver Tonight.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 3.—The Third Battalion of the Maryland National Guard encampment this morning enacted an advance guard maneuver and was driving the enemy back when reinforcements in the form of rain arrived and drove the guardsmen back to camp. The battalion was commanded by Maj. Stephen P. Fuller, of Crisfield. The First Battalion paraded tonight with Maj. Winfield B. Harward as commanding officer.

The regiment will begin a field maneuver tomorrow night. Leaving camp after supper at 7 o'clock they will hike to a location already selected, where the regiment will divide into battalions and each battalion will occupy a separate area. Pup tents will be erected and the men will sleep out until 4 o'clock in the morning when an attack by the enemy will be announced.

The regiment will then fall in and fight back, a smoke screen will be laid and a protecting barrage will be simulated by roman candles. It will return to camp at 7 a. m. for breakfast.

The theme song of the encampment is "Old Soldiers Never Die, They Simply Fade Aaway." From morning to night, at work and at play, the refrain bursts forth from officers and men.

Capt. Clarence V. Sayer, commanding the Howitzer Company of Kensington, was serenaded last night. As officer of the day he had arrested the drum major of the regimental band yesterday morning for singing after taps and the band stopped at his tent last night to pay its respects. Mournful dirges were played for ten or fifteen minutes, and then the officers' quartet chimed in with "Old Soldiers Never Die!"

Capt. Sayer, a veteran of the border and the World War, complimented the band on its playing.

Coal Sales Agency Called Vital Need

Union of 132 Operators Is Defended at Antitrust Trial in Asheville.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Economic conditions justify organization by 132 Appalachian coal operators of a joint selling agency, John D. Francis, of Baltimore, president of Appalachian Coals, Inc., testified today in the Government's antitrust suit before a three-judge Federal court.

Citing distress and suicidal competition in the coal industry and increasing competition from oil, gas and water power, defense witnesses contended the selling agency was essential. The Govrnment is seeking to dissolve Applachian Coals, Inc., for alleged violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

Francis was on the stand most of today, after William J. McGarry, of Washington, manager of the car service division of the American Railway Association, and H. M. Evanson, of Pittsburgh, consulting mining and civil engineer, had upheld defense contentions.

Total of Farm Board Wheat Holdings Bared

(Associated Press.)

Farm Board officials said yesterday it now controls approximately 24,600,000 bushels of wheat actually available for cash sale. The announcement was made in response to reports reaching the Capital that the board yesterday would issue a statement announcing all of its cash wheat had been disposed of.

Wheat available for sale is exclusive of the 45,000,000 bushels appropriated by Congress for distribution through the Red Cross to the Nation's needy. The board also controls between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 bushels of wheat futures.

Farm Bureau Session Scores Shannon Quiz

Chicago, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Farm Bureau delegates from eleven Middle Western States concluded a three-day conference today by issuing a statement condemning the method of the Shannon congressional committee investigating "Government in business" and reaffirming faith in the agricultural marketing act.

The conference, held under the auspices of the American Farm Bureau Federation, considered agricultural economics, farm relief, marketing of farm produce, and the agricultural marketing act.

Chicago & Eastern's Fifth Loan Authorized

(Associated Press).

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday authorized the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway to borrow $753,500 from the Reconstruction Corporation to be used to meet taxes.

This is the fifth loan the Chicago and Eastern has received. The first was for $3,629,500; the second, $82,080; the third, $595,500, and the fourth $600,000. The company originally applied on February 15 for a total loan of $7,796,436.

Knabenshue Reported First Minister to Irak

(Associated Press.)

Paul Knabenshue, consul general at Jerusalem, is understood here to be in line for appointment as minister to the new Eastern nation of Irak, although the State Department yesterday refused to confirm or deny the report.

Knabenshue, a native of Toledo, Ohio, is expected to be sent to Bagdad following formal admission of Irak to the League of Nations. It has been a British protectorate.

Gov. White's Daughter Is Married to Doctor

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—A courtship that started over bandages ended today in the marriage of Miss Charlotte White, younger daughter of Gov. George White, to Dr. Frank E. Hamilton, of Columbus.

Dr. Hamilton, a graduate of medicine from the University of Pennsylvania, left after a buffet supper for a wedding trip with his bride to New York and Virginia Beach.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Ambassador of Chile Luncheon Host at Embassy.

THE AMBASSADOR OF Chile, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, entertained informally at luncheon yesterday in the embassy. The guests included Mrs. Fred A. Britten, wife of Representative Britten; the Minister-Counselor of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Irujo; Mrs. Crosby Miller, Mrs. Joseph W. Mullally; the First Secretary of the Embassy, Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel, and Mr. Benjamin Cohen.

The ambassador has again postponed his trip to Mexico City, and now plans to leave Washington next Monday.

The Ambassador of Spain, Senor Don Juan Francisco de Cardenas, will leave Washington tomorrow and will go to New York to pass several days before going to Newport, where he will visit for several weeks.

The Minister of Denmark and Mme. Wadsted will leave Washington on August 13 and will sail from New York on the Danish liner Frederik VIII for Europe, where they will remain until the middle of October.

On their return the Minister and Mme. Wadsted will move to the new legation, which they have recently leased at 1920 Belmont street. The house, which is the old Nathan Scott home, was formerly occupied by the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, and before that by the former Vice President and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes.

The Minister of Ecuador, Senor Dr. Don Gonzalo Zaldumbide, sailed yesterday from New York on the S. S. Orizaba for Vera Cruz, Mexico, whence he will go to Mexico City to present his credentials as Minister to that country. After spending some time there he will visit several of the Central American Republics before returning to Washington in October to rejoin Senora de Zaldumbide and their daughter.

Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, wife of the former Secretary of Commerce, and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Eskridge Saltzman, of New York, have left by motor for Mrs. Lamont's home at Lake Forrest, Ill. Next week they will go to the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Lamont at Land o' Lakes, Wis.

The Minister-Counselor of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Irujo have moved to the Altamont, at 1901 Wyoming avenue. They recently returned from a three weeks' motor trip through New England and Canada. THE APPEAL TO MR. COOLIDGE.

("Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National Committee, conferred with ex-President Coolidge at Plymouth Notch on getting his aid in the Hoover campaign."—News Item.)

MR. SANDERS—Good morning, Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge—Morning, Ev.

Mr. Sanders—You're looking splendid. How are you feeling?

Mr. Coolidge—I'm feelin' about as good as any Republican these times. How're you?

Mr. Sanders—I'm in bad shape, too.

* * * * *

Mr. Sanders—I suppose you know what I am here for, Mr. Coolidge.

Mr. Coolidge—No, but I hope you want some insurance.

Mr. Sanders—I'm here, Mr. Coolidge, with a message from President Hoover.

Mr. Coolidge—'Taint bein' sent collect, is it?

Mr. Sanders—No sir.

Mr. Coolidge—Very well, I'll hear it.

* * * *

Mr. Sanders—Mr. Hoover wishes your aid in the campaign for reelection.

Mr. Coolidge—You mean to say Herbert actually wants four years more of it? I had a notion that once he escaped he'd turn over a new leaf and go back to fixing dams. Are you sure there's no mistakes, and that Herbert ain't had enough?

Mr. Sanders—Strange as it may seem, he wants another term.

Mr. Coolidge—There's no explainin' the tastes of some people, but I figured even a Quaker would fight against lettin' anybody put a hair shirt on him twice.

* * * *

Mr. Sanders—The President regards a second term as vindication.

Mr. Coolidge—Talk horse sense, Everett. How can anybody get vindication for a tornado, tidal wave and earthquake?

Mr. Sanders—Mr. Hoover has an idea it can be done.

Mr. Coolidge—Wal, it seems purty foolish, but what does he want me to do?

Mr. Sanders—He realizes that you have a strong hold on public appeal and that your participation in the campaign would be a distinct asset. And he feels you could help with a few speeches.

Mr. Coolidge—Nope. With that feller, Pat Hurley, on the stump there's no chance of anybody else bein' heard above the din.

Mr. Sanders—You could speak during a week when Secretary Hurley wasn't talking.

Mr. Coolidge—There'll never be a week when Pat isn't talking.

Mr. Sanders—We'll see that there is. And may I return and tell the President you will help?

Mr. Coolidge (somewhat reluctantly)—Oh, I reckon I'll have to. (Calling to Mrs. Coolidge) Oh, Grace! My hip boots, fishing rod, sap bucket and Indian headdress, please!

Mrs. Coolidge—What for, Calvin?

Mr. Coolidge (resolutely)—I'm going back into politics!

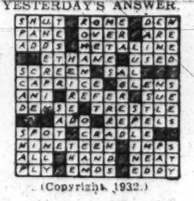
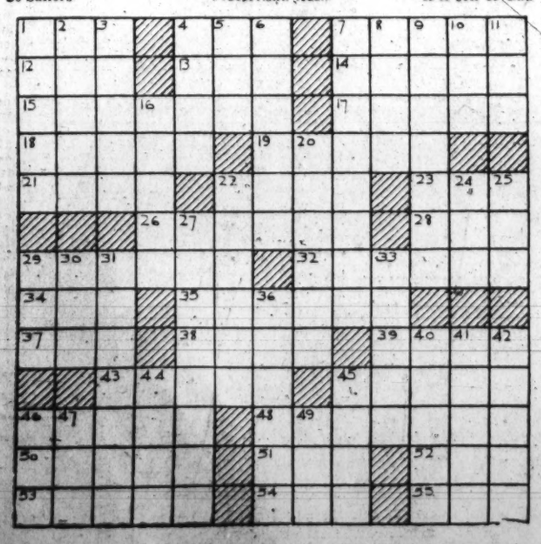
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1932.)



Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

THE broadcasting of President Hoover's acceptance speech on Thursday night, August 11, will be the occasion for radio rallies all over the United States. State and county chairmen are arranging meetings in their respective sections to listen to the President's speech from Washington.

Receiving sets and loud speakers will be provided and Republicans everywhere are expected to listen in.

President Hoover's address will be heard all over the world through domestic and short-wave facilities. Decision to short-wave the address resulted from intense international interest in what the President may have to say in formally accepting the nomination.

Complete details of the ceremony call for Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, to introduce Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, who will deliver the address of notification. The President's reply will then be broadcast. The ceremony will be heard locally over WRC and WMAL.

The running of the American Legion Handicap at Saratoga will be described by Thomas Bryan George at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon over WMAL.

A LITTLE known composition by Beethoven, "The Battle Symphony," will be presented for the first time over the air by Cesare Sodero's concert orchestra (WRC, 10:15 p. m.). The composition is based on an ancient theme, familiar in this country as "We Won't Go Home Until Morning," which was written some 800 years ago as the Crusaders' song outside the walls of Jerusalem.

Olsen and Johnson, comedians, will steal a long march on all competitors and present a Christmas program (WRC, 7 o'clock) tonight, during the Rudy Vallee program. The yuletide program will include their interpretations of a number of familiar carols.

John N. Willys, automobile manufacturer and former United States Ambassador to Poland, will speak over WMAL at 10:30 o'clock tonight. Willys will be heard in a discussion of general business conditions.

TOLAN IS OLYMPIC DASH KING AFTER 200-METER WIN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE name of Bill Dickey will grace the line-up of the Yankees today after an enforced absence of 30 days during which the belligerent catcher served penance for his attack on Carl Reynolds here on July 4.

But the name of Carl Reynolds will still be missing from the Washington box score as the innocent victim of Dickey's punch continues to take what solace he can from the fact that his broken jaw is knitting nicely.

The scales of justice are entirely askew in the Reynolds-Dickey case. The Yankee catcher gets back into the line-up after 30 days, while the Washington outfielder, who merely exercised his prerogative as a base runner when he crashed into Dickey, has suffered indescribable pain and will be lost to the team for three weeks more at least.

Dickey's penalty pales before that suffered by Reynolds and the Washington club, which has already been deprived of the outfielder's services for a month and faces three weeks additional lack.

Dickey, the aggressor in an attack that was unwarranted, escaped lightly compared to Reynolds. The latter, besides being forced to subsist on a liquid diet and enduring the passing weeks with his jaws tightly wired, has narrowly escaped strangulation on one occasion, and is now far out of playing condition as a result of his plight.

If there are no further setbacks, Reynolds hopes to rejoin the line-up on August 21. For the past two mornings he has reported to the stadium and done a bit of running and throwing, but his weakened condition has prevented any diligent efforts to regain his playing form.

The absence of Dickey slowed the Yankees perceptibly in their dash for the pennant. The New York Club since July 4 has won 10 games and lost 12, a pace far below that which it had set before Dickey led with his right at the first game of the holiday doubleheader.

Although the Nats have won 18 and lost 12 in the same period, the absence of Reynolds has been keenly felt. It was during that period that the team lost eight straight games by one run and Reynolds' presence in the line-up may have reversed the decisions in many of these contests.

With Dickey in the line-up again, the Yankees are materially strengthened. Jorgens and Phillips, the two catchers who were his alternates, failed sadly to fill his shoes or approach the .320 average that the regular catcher was sporting at the time of his suspension.

It may be significant that the Yankees' lead of 7½ games is the shortest advantage the New York club has boasted in six weeks. The advance of the Philadelphia Athletics has been slow but steady and the Yankees are not the same sure thing they appeared to be a month ago.

The Yankees have not displayed the same irresistible power that catapulted them into the lead in May and lengthened their margin to twelve games at one period. Especially noticeable has been the paucity of the New York base hits, while Vernon Gomez, their ace hurler, has been knocked out of the box in three of his last four starts.

They can't count the Yankees in yet.

Art Shires Is Retired With Pay by Braves

Boston, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, today announced Arthur ("What-a-Man") Shires, first baseman, whose release was announced by the club yesterday, has been put on the voluntary retired list.

Shires, injured in a collision with Joe Stripp, of the Brooklyn Club, earlier in the season and since unable to maintain his former pace, will be paid his full salary and, in addition, will be placed in the hands of a physician.

The agreement must have the approval of Commissioner Landis.

Nats Lose 2-1 Duel With Tigers

Thomas Gives Only 5 Hits But Bows to Sorrell.

Rhiel's Double Scores Winning Run; Rally in Eighth Futile.

Special to The Washington Post.

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, Aug. 3.—It "Rhielly" was too bad that Pitcher Tommy Thomas and the Nationals were beaten in the series opener with the Detroit Tigers here this afternoon, for the Washington pitcher, who has not turned in a bad performance since bought from the White Sox, allowed but five hits as against six garnered off the slants of Vic Sorrell. Thomas checked all of the home hitters in the pinches but Billy Rhiel, this youngster coming through with run-scoring safeties in two different innings to let the Harrismen grab the verdict, 2 to 1.

With the Nationals scoring but once, Thomas would have had to pitch shutout ball to win—and this is a little too much to expect in these days of short fields and the "rabbit" ball. At that, the Nats might have won had Thomas not issued his only two passes in the fourth inning. Then came the first of Rhiel's two safeties and the run which knotted the string, for the Nats had scored their lone marker in the second.

Winning Run Scored In Sixth.

What proved to be the winning tally was molded in the sixth, which was the only round in which the natives hit safely more than once. Thomas gave way to Pinch-hitter Joe Judge in the eighth and Fred Marberry held the Tigers hitless in their half of the round, although he was a little wild, passing two and uncorking a wild pitch.

But, as good as Thomas was, Sorrell was a little better. While granting one more hit than did his rival, he walked one less and, after the Nats had inserted three safeties in the second to score a marker, limited them to three in as many different innings over the balance of the route.

Not only was it a tight mound duel but both sides fielded well, and so snappy was the play that it took but 1 hour and 33 minutes for the contest, making it the second shortest game of the season. A lone error was made, Schuble being charged with it starting the Nats' seventh, when Cronin was given life as a starter, No good came of it to the Nats, though, for Kuhel, after twice trying to sacrifice, hit into a double-play.

Dave Harris hit for Berg starting the next round and singled and again the Nats were unable to get to Sorrell. Judge, up for Thomas, sacrificed, and Dave took third on Rice's infield out, but he died there watching Myer fan.

The first score of the game came in the second when, with one dead, Kuhel, West and Bluege singled in rapid order. Sorrell put on the brakes here, forcing Berg to roll out and Thomas to fan, and then breezed along in fine style over the balance of the route.

Thomas Loses Control Temporarily.

Thomas temporarily lost the location of the plate in the fourth and this enabled the Tigers to tie the count, Gehringer, first up, was franked and then, after Stong filed out, Webb drew a free ticket. The latter was forced at second, with Gehringer taking third, when Bluege made a flashy stop of Walker's grounder. The latter stole second while Thomas held the ball, beating the throw to second, after the pitcher had first tossed to Kuhel. Then Rhiel singled to right, propelling Gehringer home. Walker had to stop at third and was stranded there.

It took a good back-handed stop by Kuhel to prevent a Tiger run in the fifth, after Hayworth had singled and advanced a step at a time on Sorrell's sacrifice and Davis' useful out. The home team was more successful in the next canto, however. With two gone, Walker singled to left and brought home the run which decided the verdict when Rhiel doubled against the wall in the same sector.

Chisox Down Yankees in 10th, 3-2

League Leaders Held to 6 Hits as Lyons Bests Ruffing.

Double, Sacrifice and Fothergill's Long Fly Decisive.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—With Ted Lyons outpitching Charley Ruffing in a ten-inning hurlers' duel, the Chicago White Sox took the series opener from the New York Yankees, 3 to 2, today.

In addition to holding the Yankees to six hits, Lyons doubled in the eighth and eventually scored the tying run as the result of Funks' sacrifice and Hayes' long fly. The Sox scored their winning run in the same manner with Blue doubling, advancing to third on Grube's sacrifice and scoring on Pinch Hitter Fothergill's long fly to Chapman.

Only in the fourth inning did the Yanks threaten Lyons. Then Sewell singled, Ruth walked and both scored on Chapman's one-base blow. The victory was the former Baylor University star's sixth victory of the season.

Ruffing, trying for his thirteenth victory, held the Sox to eight hits, but his mates were unable to hit Lyons. Ruth failed to get a hit in two official trips to the plate, while the only extra base hit was a double by Gehrig.

President's Cup May Go to Coast

Washington is not likely to be the scene of the 1932 President's Cup football game, which annually is contested between the service teams in the nearby country. The cup, placed in competition in 1924 by President Calvin Coolidge, is now held by the Coast Guard.

Economic conditions probably will preclude the formation of teams from the Army, Navy or Coast Guard this year in this section.

The Marines of Quantico, who plan to put their usual squad on the gridiron next season, have taken the initiative and will request President Hoover to forward the coveted trophy to the Pacific Coast, where all four branches of the service are strongly represented in the grid game. It is probable that the President will assent.

The annual play-off for the trophy has established itself as an integral part of the District gridiron picture. Games have been blessed with large turnouts, including White House representation. The last two years charity benefited from the final clashes.

Swedish Policeman Olympic Mat Winner

Olympic Auditorium, Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Throwing his American opponent, Robert W. Hess, of Iowa State College, with surprising swiftness, Ivar Johansson, a policeman from Norrkoping, Sweden, today won the Olympic middleweight wrestling championship to give Sweden the first two grappling titles.

The match had hardly started when Johansson tripped Hess to the mat and pounced on the Yankee. The Iowan's shoulders caught the canvas for an instant as he rolled out and the bout was over.

Robert Edward Pearce, of Cushing, Okla., representing Oklahoma A. and M., was assured of at least a tie for the bantamweight catch-as-catch-can wrestling championship when he scored a decision tonight over Aatos Jaskari, Finland.

Hafey Reports to Reds; Insists He Is Ready

Boston, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Chick Hafey, the Cincinnati Reds' slugging outfielder, reported to Manager Dan Howley here today and will be in the line-up tomorrow in the series opener with the Boston Braves.

Although Hafey was ordered to remain idle for the rest of the season, he insisted he was in condition to play. He was stricken with influenza early in the season.

"Hafey showed up today," Howley said, "but he seems to be greatly underweight. I'm doubtful if he will be strong enough to last a full game. He was to have played in today's postponed double-header, but will be in tomorrow, if the rain quits."

Howley blames the Reds' poor showing on his star's absence.

McLarnin-Brouillard Return to Ring Tonight

New York, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Idle for more than a year, Jimmy McLarnin, the Vancouver bomber, returns to the wars tomorrow night in a ten-round bout with Lou Brouillard, one-time welterweight champion of the world, at Yankee Stadium.

For the first time in many years, he may enter the ring as the underdog. Brouillard has made a tremendous impression on the experts by his work in training.

Brouillard will come in at about 149 pounds, which will give him a weight advantage of some 5 pounds.

CUBS PLEDGE LOYALTY TO GRIMM

No Grievances Held by Hornsby; Hopes Team Repeats.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Loyalty to the new boss of the Cubs and best wishes for the departing manager as he prepared to leave for the West were expressed today by members of the Chicago National League team.

Rogers Hornsby, deposed yesterday by President William L. Veeck, saying good-by to the players, told them he hoped they would win the pennant and the world series.

The Rajah said he had only the best of feeling and good wishes for his successor, Charley Grimm. "More power to him," he exclaimed in talking of the swift change in leadership of the Cubs.

No Changes Planned By Grimm.

Grimm, still elated over his sudden elevation to the managership, called his players together today and received their pledge of loyalty. Rain caused postponement of today's game with the Phillies, giving the new chief time to think over plans for the Cubs' campaign for the remainder of the season.

The new leader said he contemplated no changes in line-up or training rules.

"Rog wasn't unreasonable in his training demands," said Grimm, "and I don't intend to make any changes at all."

Grimm said the club has not been hitting as it should, but if the players got going they would be in the pennant fight at the finish.

There were various reports regarding the real cause of the Rajah's being deposed as manager.

"Yes, there was some discussions about the way the team should be handled on the field," said Hornsby, "but when I'm the manager I run the team. That's all I have to say. Some one else should do the talking.

"I'm going home to my farm and take life easy. I won't play ball again this season because the Cubs have to pay me in full for the year. I don't have to do a thing but collect my salary."

Hornsby explained that if he were to play ball or manage a team this season, the salary he would receive would be deducted from what the Chicago Club is to pay him up to the end of the year.

"Next year," Hornsby said, "I hope to be with some major league team, either as player, manager or captain. I think the Cubs are good enough to win the pennant and the world series, and I hope they do.

"My only regret is in leaving Pitcher Warneke. I hope they handle him right, for he's going to be a great pitcher."

Wrigley, Cubs Owner, Firmly Backs Veeck

Chicago, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Phil K. Wrigley, who succeeded to the holdings of his late father, William Wrigley, jr., in the Chicago Cubs, has taken a "hands off" policy in the appointment by William L. Veeck, president of the club, of Charley Grimm to succeed Rogers Hornsby as Cub pilot.

"Veeck is running the ball club," young Wrigley said today. "That's my wish. Anything Veeck does is all right with me. I don't know much about baseball. It's Veeck's job to see that the Cubs win a pennant.

"I rather suspected that Veeck was dissatisfied with the way things were going and that he had planned some change, but I didn't know until I was told about it last night, that it had been effected."

Wrigley appeared to take the view that the Cubs, now battling in second place, would win the pennant with the switch in management.

Seen and Heard At the Olympics

By BRIAN BELL.

OLYMPIC STADIUM, Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—An Olympic star of day before yesterday, two of yesterday and one of today, if the authorities would permit, sat in the Olympic Stadium today and found times have changed.

Fred W. Kelly, who won the 110-meter hurdles twenty years ago in 15.1, found the boys were running the event much faster now. Kelly, an airplane pilot on a passenger line between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, came down to earth by taking his vacation during the Olympic games.

The crack pilot turned his back on active participation in track events long ago, now getting his exercise on the golf course, where he shoots in the 80s, well content to let the Salings, Beards and Kellers take the hurdles in his place.

Clarence (Bud) Hauser has not been so long away from competition, and it must have been a shock to him to see the discusmen send platters sailing through the air to wipe out his record.

Hauser, who is now a Los Angeles dentist, won the Olympic discus event in 1924 and again in 1928 and set the record, broken today in his last victory.

As for Paavo Nurmi, he sits stolidly in the stands watching the procession go by. If he is perturbed by the fact every one of his Olympic records may be displaced in this competition, when he can do nothing about it, he gives no sign. The great Finn runner seldom changes expression.

Lee Barnes, Los Angeles business man, saw his listed world record in the pole vault, which was surpassed in the American Olympic trials, topped again today and his winning mark in the Olympics of 1924 was made to look puny.

Japan's gain was France's loss once when the officials judging the discus became so interested in watching Nishida, of Japan, clear 13 feet 11 inches in the pole vault, they failed to see Noel, of France, make a good throw. Noel came back to make another good one, but not good enough, although it improved his standing temporarily.

Maurice ("Mud") Gardner, former holder of the Missouri Valley outdoor half-mile record and captain of the Nebraska track team in 1924, was the man in the full beard who created considerable excitement when he arrived. Gardner, who is now coaching at McCook High School, retained the scenic effect as a souvenir of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of McCook.

The biggest crowd of the actual competition was too enthusiastic. Premature cheers disconcerted several of the nervous pole vaulters and they were unable to get off the ground, being scored a miss without having their try.

VAN TO FIGHT BRITT AGAIN AT LAUREL

Seeks to Avenge One-Round Knockout in Bout on Monday.

WITH a motive of revenge rising high within him, Young Van, sensational Washington middleweight, last night accepted terms to fight Sammy Britt again in the semifinal of the Twin City Club's program at the Laurel Arena on Monday night.

Britt, it was who applied the brakes to Van's winning streak, which had showed nine straight victories. He did it decisively, connecting with a right hook to Van's jaw in the first round of last Monday night's battle and ending the fight in 2 minutes 14 seconds.

When Promoter Charles E. Cornell broached the subject of a return fight to Young Van the latter leaped at the opportunity to sign, expressing confidence in his ability to repeat a victory over Britt, which he scored by a decision in the first meeting between the pair.

Defeated Britt Before.

Van dismissed his knockout by Britt as a lucky punch. He pointed out that in his first fight with Britt he had no difficulty in standing Britt off for the full distance, and staggered him no little in the fourth round when it appeared that he would win by a knockout.

The stake in the Van-Britt bout will be a battle with Henry Irving, which will go to the winner. Local middleweight supremacy rests among this trio. Irving has twice beaten Britt. Britt has defeated Irving and Van and Van holds a clean-cut decision over Britt.

In the feature bout of the show Joe Banovic, New Jersey light heavyweight, who earned his Washington reputation by putting Bob Godwin on the floor, is to battle Joe DeCapua, New England hope, who has fought the ranking men in his class.

British Railroad Man Is Winner Of Olympic 50,000-Meter Walk

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Thomas William Green, 39-year-old railroad employe of Great Britain, putting on a spurt at the finish, won the 50,000-meter walk, one of the most strenuous Olympic events, tonight in 4 hours 50 minutes 10 seconds.

Green passed Janis Dalinsh, of Latvia, and Ugo Frigerio, veteran Italian walker, who finished second and third, respectively, near the end of the 31 mile 125-yard hike through Griffith Park.

The time was comparatively slow, due to the heat, which caused seven of the fifteen contestants to collapse and fall by the wayside early in the afternoon.

Karl Hachnel, of Germany, finished fourth, and Etere Rivolta, of Italy, fifth. No Americans finished among the leaders.

Both Frigerio and Rivolta collapsed at the finish line and were carried to their training camps by their countrymen.

A crowd of 7,000 persons watched the heel and toe artists along the route and an estimated 5,000 were gathered at the finish line.

AMERICANS SWEEP DASH AND HURDLES

greatest day the United States has ever had in this international athletic competition.

The Americans, dominating the proceedings from the outset, won all four of the men's championships decided, breaking Olympic records in three of them, in addition to which the great Texas girl athlete, Mildred ("Babe") Didrikson, maintained the feminine world record-breaking pace with a new mark of 11.8 seconds for the 80-meter hurdles in her first trial race.

The Americans finished one-two-three in both the 200-meter dash and 110-meter hurdles final, won by George Saling, of Iowa. They were one-two in the discus throw, where six Olympic record-breaking tosses were climaxed by the victorious heave of 162 feet 4⅞ inches by giant John Anderson, former Cornell star. They finished one-three-four in the pole vault as Bill Miller soared beyond the listed world record with a vault of 14 feet 1⅞ inches to win a spectacular duel from the surprising 22-year-old Japanese, Shuhei Nishida, who placed second at exactly 14 feet.

The day's results gave the United States seven of the twelve men's track and field championships decided in four days of unparalleled world competition, added 70 points to the American total, now at the overwhelming figure of 151, and assured this country's decisive mastery of the proceedings.

As it stands now, Olympic records have been broken or new ones created in fifteen track and field events for men and women, with world records surpassed in six events and equaled in three others.

It looked for a time today as though Bill Miller, the Stanford lad, who was runner-up to Bill Graber in their famous record-smashing try-out duel, would go higher than any pole vaulter in history. To most everybody's surprise, Graber, who lifted himself 14 feet 4⅝ inches at Palo Alto, dropped from the competition today before the bar was notched at 14 feet. At that height Miller and Nishida still were tied and it was then decided to move the crosspiece up to 14 feet 3 inches.

Miller Tops Olympic Mark On Third Trial.

Miller finally got over, after two misses, but on remeasurement the bar was found to have sagged a bit and the American was credited with 14 feet 1⅞ inches, a shade better than Lee Barnes' listed world mark of 14 feet 1½ inches. Miller then took a crack at 14 feet 5 inches, in an attempt to surpass Graber's best, but he just failed to negotiate this.

The discus throw was just one succession of Olympic record throws. The champion, Anderson, got off no less than four heaves each of which surpassed the former Olympic record of 155 feet 3 inches, made in 1928 by Bud Houser.

Meanwhile his team mate, Henri La Borde, bettered the mark twice before landing second place with 158 feet 11⅞ inches. Anderson's four record throws ranged from 157 feet ¾ inch to 162 feet 4⅞ inches. The American holder of the world record of 169 feet 8⅜ inches, Paul Jessup, of Seattle, did not place, and his best throw was only 148 feet 5¾ inches.

Saling broke the tape first in the 110-meter high hurdles after his team mate, Percy Beard, tripped over next to the last barrier while leading the six finalists. Beard was away to a great start and quickly opened up a gap, but as he was partially thrown off stride by his mishap, Saling came with a rush to win by 4 feet in 14.6 seconds. This equaled the old Olympic record, but was behind the new standard for the game, 14.4, set by Saling in the semifinals yesterday.

Jack Keller, of Ohio State, finished a close third in the timber-topping race, after a poor start. His failure to make it closer among the three Americans was the only real surprise of the final, as United States supremacy was conceded beforehand.

It was the fourth time in as many events that the feminine contingent demolished a world record when "Babe" Didrikson came romping over the 80-meter hurdles in the new low mark of 11.8 seconds.

She led her team mate, Simone Schaller, of Pasadena, in the first trial, following which Evelyn Hall, of Chicago, took the second test in 12 seconds flat. This also bettered the former world record of 12.2 seconds, held jointly by Czechslovakian and South African girls.

All the favorites, except Thomas, of England, and Pelter, of Germany, qualified among the dozen survivors of the 1,500-meter trials.

PITTSBURGHER BEATS FAVORITES IN CANTER AT HAWTHORNE

5-1 Shot Wins Feature by 6 Lengths

Evergold Second as Spanish Play and Polydorous Trail.

Volette, Workman Up, Beats Cutie Face at Saratoga.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Pittsburgher returned to his good racing form at Hawthorne today by cantering home ahead of a fleet field in the Pingate Purse over a mile and a sixteenth. The 4-year-old son of In Memoriam, Wisteria, ran the distance over a heavy track in 1:48 4-5 and beat Evergold by six lengths. Morsel was third.

Seven went to the post. Mrs. John D. Hertz's Risque led the procession for three quarters and then quit as Pittsburgher moved into command and won easily. Evergold moved up in the stretch and easily overtook Morsel. Polydorus, the heavily backed choice, was far out of the money, as was Spanish Play.

Pittsburgher, piloted by Jockey Wayne Wright, paid $12.56 to win.

Workman Brings Home Volette at Spa.

Saratoga Race Track, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Heavy rain, which began falling last night and continued almost without interruption through today, took its toll from the card and attendance here this afternoon. Several of the most formidable contenders named overnight for the Schuylerville, a 5½-furlong stake for juvenile fillies, were withdrawn, but an even ten were left to compete through a sea of deep slop.

Volette, a bay daughter of Disdonc, which raced successfully in Chicago, showed a smart performance to take the $3,350 winner's share of the purse, by a half length from the Wheatley Stable's Notebook. Mrs. George M. Seglin's Cutie Face was beaten eight lengths for the show.

Volette broke like the wind from her inside position, but Workman allowed Notebook and Cutie Face to pass his mount in the run to the first turn. The move turned out to be a wise one, for the two leaders raced head and head while Volette was rated close up. When his rivals went wide turning for home, Workman steered the ultimate winner through on the inside. Volette then drew into a slight lead and held Notebook safe to the finish. Crazy Jane, well played, was in early difficulties and was outrun the rest of the trip.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Asbestos played Happen and Red Ronald, two long-shots, yesterday. One ran second and other ran third. They will probably win next out as do most of his horses that lose. Asbestos tries to put over real long shots that no one is wise to. The roll lost 42 cents and is now $50.26.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUGUST 3.

Beginning to believe I know something. Turned in a profitable afternoon with three winners and three second horses that popped up in the top hole. And then I put Battle Ax second where he paid 13 to 1. My Saratoga special was second after being interfered with by the winner—Hell Diver. The track here was drying out fast this afternoon and barring more rain the course will be no worse than slow by tomorrow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—TERRY LASS is as good, if not better, than the juveniles to face the barrier in the opener. Has worked well. HERNANDO seems a likely second. LERACK for third.

SECOND RACE—SARAZEN II is in excellent condition and shines in fields of this kind. Expect a winning performance tomorrow. CAMP BOSS is also in shape and can place. PREDICT is something of a mystery, but likes a slow track and may make the top pair step.

THIRD RACE—MINTOGEE likes the drying course and has been fairly consistent since coming to the races. FLIRTING and SNORKY appear to be the ones to battle for the third money.

FOURTH RACE—Sticking to DIS DAT. Track conditions move this fellow up despite the fact that he has failed me recently. Believe he will take the measure of ETCETERA and SISKIN.

FIFTH RACE—STONE MARTIN is as honest as they come and seems well suited for this race. Gets in well with only a steady impost. CHOKOLOSKEE impressed me with his last race. OUTBOUND for the show.

SIXTH RACE—ANITA ORMONT may never win another race, but I'm picking her here. Likes the track and the conditions and they may let out the necessary notches tomorrow. RENEWED will be right there if the top gal makes mistakes. PREFER for third.

SEVENTH RACE—MARYDALE to collect the first money in this. Not a bad sort, this Mary and a fast miss. STRAIGHTAWAY to beat SPUD for the show end.

EIGHTH RACE—MARLENE is not the horse she was in Maryland but is still good enough to take this on a slow track. OLD DEPOT is at tops. TROMBONE for the short money.

BIG OCTOBER FOR DIXIE ELEVENS

Month's Games Mean Much to 5 Teams Rated Contenders.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The Southern Conference football schedule makers have laid plans for the loudest October explosions Dixie has heard in many seasons.

Preseason gossip has centered around five teams—Alabama, Tulane, Tennessee, Vanderbilt and Georgia—as probable conference champions, but mid-October will find two and possibly three of these among the defeated elevens for Alabama plays Tennessee, Georgia faces Tulane, and Vanderbilt engages Tulane.

The October pivotal contests throughout the South include:

October 1—Duke and V. M. I., Georgia and V. P. I., Georgia Tech and Clemson, Maryland and Virginia and North Carolina and Vanderbilt.

October 8—Georgia and Tulane, Tennessee and North Carolina, Clemson and North Carolina State, Florida and Sewanee, and Duke and Auburn.

October 15—Alabama and Tennessee, Tulane and Vanderbilt, Georgia and North Carolina, Kentucky and Washington and Lee, and Louisiana State and Mississippi State.

Vanderbilt Has Tough Assignment.

Vanderbilt, playing seven conference teams, including all the favored elevens, probably has the hardest route to a championship. The Commodores open with Mercer, then tackle North Carolina, Western Kentucky, Tulane, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, Tennessee and Alabama.

After opening with V. P. I., Georgia finds four tough opponents in a row—Tulane, North Carolina, Vanderbilt and Florida—then plays New York University and finishes with Clemson, Auburn and Georgia Tech.

Tennessee has a difficult opening assignment with Chattanooga, always one of the best Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association teams, then plays Mississippi, North Carolina and Alabama on successive Saturdays. The Vols have a breather with Maryville and quickly start back on the upgrade again with Duke, Mississippi State, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Florida.

Two Hard Games in Row For Tulane.

Tulane has the unpleasant task of meeting Georgia and Vanderbilt in its second and third games, after playing the inaugural with Texas A. and M. The Greenies later face Auburn, South Carolina, Georgia Tech, Kentucky, Sewanee and L. S. U.

Alabama encounters Tennessee on October 15—after previous engagements with Southwestern, Mississippi State and George Washington—then finds Mississippi, Kentucky, V. P. I. and Georgia Tech ahead before the Vanderbilt contest and the finale with St. Mary's.

Stocks Face Upward Again In Cheerful 4.1-Point Rally

Greatest Advance of Year Made in Turnover of 2,399,024 Shares.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Shares swept into the best advance of the year today, encouraged more by a strong wheat market and by what appeared to be an irrepressible leaning toward cheerfulness, than by cold evidence on the state of trade.

Showing an average net gain of 4.1 points, which meant the best prices since mid-April, pivotal issues during the afternoon rolled upward in a manner that cost covering shorts dearly.

Stocks behaved indifferently in the first hour, but began to work higher in the second and by early afternoon were well launched on their rally. Net gains of 3 to 7 points proved numerous, late profit taking being easily absorbed. Strength was particularly conspicuous in the barometric leaders such as American Telephone, which crossed 96 for a net gain of 6⅞; U. S. Steel common and preferred, up 3¾ and 5¼, respectively; American Can, 4½; du Pont, 3½; Allied Chemical, 6⅜; Santa Fe, 4½; Union Pacific, 6½; American Tobacco "B," 6½, and Eastman Kodak, 4⅞. General Motors firmed 1½.

Sales totaled 2,399,024 shares, which was less than last Thursday's volume.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

LONDON—Prices were reactionary on the stock exchange due to disappointing continental and Wall street news. Prices drooped in most sections with oil and textile shares steady exceptions. The closing was easy.

PARIS—The rise in French rentes under the lead of the three per cent issues was the feature on the bourse today. The rest of the market showed a tendency to react owing to the weak closing in New York last night. The Young loan was heavy and the market closed steady.

BERLIN—Trading continued inactive on the boerse pending political developments and prices ragged fractionally. Prices recovered slightly at the close.

First Currency Is Issued Under Glass-Borah Rider

(Associated Press.)

Issuance of $1,656,420 in national bank currency, the first under the Glass-Borah rider to the home loan bank bill, was reported yesterday by the Treasury in its statement for August 1.

This legislation, permitting use of Government bonds bearing not more than 3⅛ per cent interest as security for currency issues, became effective last week. It would permit national banks to issue a total of $995,000,000 in currency on the new form of security for three years.

On July 30 the outstanding national bank notes amounted to $773,877,423.

BONDS SENT HIGHER AFTER SHORT SLUMP

Two-tenths Gain Recorded in Less Active Trading; Federals Are Dull.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The bond market, after moving irregularly lower in early trading, got aboard the railroads today and rode to a substantial rally.

Except in a few specialties, trading generally lacked the buoyancy which might have been expected in view of the performance of junior securities. Sales totaled $11,923,000, par value, and the average gain of 60 selected bonds amounted to two-tenths of a point.

Although the rails attracted the most attention, the utilities' average actually made the best showing of the session.

Carrier bonds that jumped from 1 to 4 or more points included some of Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Delaware & Hudson, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Frisco, Southern Pacific, Southern and Wabash.

United States Government obligations were dull and barely steady. Argentine loans led a rally in the foreign group with advances of from 1 to 4 points. The Germans recovered for small gains and bonds of New South Wales, Queensland and Japan improved. The Colombians also firmed.

CURB RENEWS CLIMB IN HEAVY TURNOVER

Market Forsakes Reaction in 240,000-Share Sale; Utilities Advance.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Snapping out of reactionary tendencies around midday, the curb market swung into a resumption of its July-August advance, and pushed ahead in rather sensational fashion for the rest of the session today. Volume was about 240,000 shares, or nearly double that of yesterday.

The market turned on the action of the big board, but it also enjoyed considerable leadership of its own. The Electric Bond & Share group and other established market favorites like Aluminum Co. of America, Gulf Oil and Humble Oil gave impetus to buying operations by the aggressive manner of their advance, involving gains ranging from 3 to 8 points.

Practically all the utilities participated in the advance, and some of the sharpest gainers aside from those noted above were American Gas & Electric, which rose nearly 3 points, Electric Bond & Share common, 3½. Newmont Mining led the mining group to moderately higher levels.

Copper Price Advances.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Prices of copper for foreign shipment advanced from 15 to 25 points today. This firmness was attributed to relatively good buying yesterday. The metal was quoted in London at from 5.05 to 5.15 cents a pound, c. i. f.

COTTON JOINS RISES ON TRADE'S BUYING

Decembers Close at 6.14, Up 9 to 11 Points, as Liverpool Hedges.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Cotton advanced today on trade buying and covering stimulated by firmness in the grain and stock markets. After selling off to 5.98 at the start, December rallied to 6.20, or 16 points above yesterday's closing quotations, but offerings increased slightly on the bulge and that delivery closed at 6.14. The general market closed steady at net advances of 9 to 11 points.

Buying through brokers believed to be operating for Bombay account, together with some Western, local and Wall street buying, started more general covering and sent the price of October up from 5.83 to 6.03 and March from 6.21 to 6.41, or about 14 to 16 points net higher. Closing prices showed reactions of several points from the best under realizing.

Liverpool cables reported scattered buying supplied by Manchester and hedge selling in that market. Exports reported today 21,875, making 26,010 so far this season.

Steel Backing Recovery In Plans for Reopening

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 3 (A. P.).—Indications tending to bear out steel executives' optimism for an upturn include scheduled resumption of Republic Steel Corporation's huge 1,000-ton Trumbull Cliffs blast furnace at Warren, Ohio, next week and activity about the long-closed plant of Newton Steel Co. at Newton Falls.

The Warren furnace has been operating on and off for some time.

The Newton Falls sheet plant, idle for more than 13 months, is being cleaned up and several truck loads of equipment were reported hauled into the plant.

WHEAT PRICE JUMPS ON RUMORS OF POOL

Almost 3 Cents Per Bushel Rise Added as Other Grains Mount.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Accompanied by unconfirmed reports that a $50,000,000 pool had been formed to operate in commodity markets, all grains scored a brisk advance late today.

Wheat jumped almost three cents from the day's low point. The soaring of grains was simultaneous with a sweeping advance of the stock market, and with big buying of wheat credited largely to Eastern account.

Wheat closed unsettled 1⅝ to 1¾ above yesterday's finish; corn, 1⅛ to 1½ up; oats, ¼ to ½ higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Helping to stimulate the rise of grain values were statements that unofficial estimates putting the 1932 probable yield of domestic spring wheat at 273,000,000 bushels were too high, and that harvest returns would turn out to be around 250,000,000.

Corn and oats rose with wheat. Although earlier influenced by additional rains both the feed cereals outdid the season's low price record.

Provisions were neglected.

SLUMP IS TRACED TO 1926 BEGINNING

Economists Say Mergers Aided Delay in Break Until 1929.

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—While there has been a notable shrinkage in the total number of individual business and commercial enterprises since the business slump set in, economists are puzzling over the fact that this decline did not start in 1929, but actually started in 1926.

The change in the trend in the number of companies, banks, artnerships, &c., doing business in the United States, according to statistics collected by Bradstreet's, came not in bad, but in good times. The significance of this change in 1926 seems even more important, when it is recognized that this was the first definite change in trend since Bradstreet's first began collecting the statistics in 1881.

Among factors which may account for the phenomenon are the concentration of control through mergers; expansion of existing businesses to take care of trade previously handled by others; increasing efficiency of existing business, so that new units become unnecessary, and possibly what may be decidedly important, a flattening out of the rate of growth of population.

In 1926, the peak year, there were 2,258,423 business units. In 1931, there were 2,125,675, a decline of 133,000 units. For the six years, 1926-31, there were 130,000 failures. Thus, on the average, not enough new businesses were established to replace eliminated units. Up to 1926, on the contrary, there was a surplus of new units.

$75,000,000 Loan Asked.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was asked for a loan yesterday by Senator Wagner (Democrat), New York, and port authorities to start a $75,000,000 tunnel project under the Hudson River at Thirty-eighth street in New York City.

Lefty McIntire, in Training, Would Stop Dixie Pig Nine

Ciro's With Back to Wall Prime Southpaw for Important Capital City League Clash Sunday; Hurler Seeks Revenge.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

"LEFTY" McINTIRE has gone in training. The Southwest southpaw is listening to Uncle Bill's bedtime story early these nights, rising early, working out a little each day and in general leading a model life, all because he wants to be in tip-top shape when he strides to the mound Sunday to pitch for Ciro's Villagers against the Dixie Pigs. The game is an important one to the Villagers. By winning they will retain a slim, mathematical chance of holding the Dixies to a tie for the Section A, unlimited division honors in the Capital City League. Defeat will erase what hopes Tony Burruto's men now hold.

If the Dixies are to be beaten, "Lefty" McIntire is the man to do the job. He encountered Hugh Waldrop's sluggers from Berwyn once before this season, and came out on the short end of a 2-0 score. It was a tough game to lose. "Lefty" held his opponents to five hits, issued no free tickets to first base, but lost on a pair of untimely errors.

To lose the decision after pitching a fine game was enough to arouse McIntire's fighting spirit and seek revenge, but the real goad that urged him on was the fact that a 17-year-old youngster, Ad Adair, beat him. Ad pitched even a better game than his crafty opponent, holding Ciro's to three hits.

"I'm gonna beat those buys if I never win another ball game," McIntire said recently.

And he will, too, if earnest endeavor counts in the battle. Two weeks ago he pitched his team to a 3-to-2 ten-inning victory over Congress Heights. In winning the game he held the foe to two hits and passed two batters. Congress Heights coupled the walks with errors and one of the hits to obtain its two runs. That happened in the seventh inning. In the other innings the losers simply paraded to the plate and back to the bench. Lefty fanned twenty.

"That's what I'm gonna do to those Dixies. Stand 'em on their heads. And if the team can't make any runs for me I may knock a couple of home runs in the bargain," he said.

And he may, at that. Lefty is funny that way.

This was decided by the toss of a coin at a meeting between "Zip" Poole, manager of the Wonders; "Rip" Mills, Pale Dry pilot, and the secretary of the league, held last night in the sports department of The Post.

Malcewicz Thrown In Toronto Mat Bout

Toronto, Ontario, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Charley Strack, of Boston, won two out of three falls from Joe Malcewicz, of Utica, N. Y., in the feature wrestling match here tonight. Strack took the first in 19 minutes 1 second and the third in 4 minutes 32 seconds. Malcewicz won the second in 11 seconds.

Retzlaff and Gastanaga Shifted to Queensboro

New York, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Already twice postponed, the ten-round heavyweight bout between Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, and Isadoro Gastanaga tonight was declared definitely off so far as Ebbets Field is concerned, but was immediately rescheduled for the Queensboro Stadium for next Tuesday night.

Rain prevented today's attempt to go through with the battle and no other date was available at the Brooklyn ball park.

Cochet to Compete In U. S. Championship

Paris, Aug. 3 (A.P.).—The newspaper Soir today said that Henri Cochet, France's ranking tennis player, planned to compete in the United States championships at Forrest Hills in September in the hope of meeting Ellsworth Vines, jr., American champion, and avenging the defeat he suffered at Vines' hands in the Davis Cup matches.

ON THE SIDELINES
by BRIAN BELL

CERTAIN events in connection with the playing of the last United States open golf championship showed that a good golfer can get in traps—lots of them—and still score well. Fred Morrison, winner of the rich Agua Caliente open last winter, will give testimony on demand.

The big Pasadena pro was around the difficult Fresh Meadow course in 69—a stroke under the exaction par—and he was in twelve traps on the round. The fact that he was exploding the ball from the sand close to the cup and putting like a wild man accounted for the remarkable performance. In the first nine holes he used only eleven putts.

"I could not keep out of the traps," said big Fred. "It seemed that no matter how carefully I stroked the ball it wound up on the sand. I got so I shot as well as I knew how and then looked for the sand to fly. Most of the time it did just that.

"The fellows playing behind me, I learned later, were astonished that one man could get in so many traps, and when the round was over one of them asked me if I managed to break 80. When I told him I had, by the most wonderful exhibition of luck I had ever seen, managed to break 70, he nearly keeled over.

"Of course, I had to have just about all the luck in the world to keep bouncing that ball out of the sand fairly close to the cup. I holed one long one—about 30 feet—but most of the putts I knocked in were less than 10 feet."

FOXX MAY GO OVER.

With things happening to major league baseball and all that, it has been pretty generally conceded that no player will equal Babe Ruth's 1927 record of 60 home runs, but Jimmy Foxx may cause a recount.

When the Maryland farmer boy cracked out three circuit wallops in the weird eighteen-inning, 18-to-17 game with Cleveland and followed with another the next day to run his mid-July total to 34, the big Babe's record was at least threatened. Jimmy has the power and the eye and, with a break in luck, he might hit five dozen home runs.

HIT FACTORY.

In the general excitement incident to Jimmy's three home runs in the eighteen-inning game, perhaps not enough attention was paid to Johnny Burnett's performance in negotiating "eleven for nine," eleven times at bat and nine safe hits.

Cleveland has been bemoaning the lack of a shortstop for years, but here's a lad who, while he may not be the best shortstop in the business, must have something on the ball to be able to make nine hits in one game, even if it did go eighteen innings.

There are no available major league records for most number of hits in eighteen-inning games, as there are not enough eighteen-inning games to make the compilation worth while, but in the absence of figures to the contrary it may be taken for granted that Burnett made a record.

LIEBHARDT TO ORIOLES.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 3 (A.P.).—Pitcher Glenn Liebhardt, who left the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League after a disagreement with the management, has been sold to the Baltimore Club, it was announced today.

ENGLISH CAPTAINS CUBS.

Elwood English, star shortstop, today was named captain of the Cubs, succeeding Charlie Grimm, who held the post before he replaced Hornsby as manager.

DAVIS CUP TEAM SAILS.

Cherbourg, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—The American Davis Cup squad, unsuccessful in its quest for the famed tennis trophy, sailed for home today aboard the liner Olympic.

BANK RAID SUSPECT TO BE BROUGHT HERE

Man, Seized in Philadelphia, Will Be Questioned in Two Holdups.

Suspected as one of the five bandits who robbed two branches of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank of currency totaling $23,165 on January 16 and June 10, Edward Dee, of Philadelphia, will be returned to Washington for questioning today in the custody of Detective Sergt. Frank Brass.

Capt. B. W. Thompson said that Dee would be placed in a police headquarters line-up at 7:30 tonight and that he would endeavor to have all employes who were in the bank at the time of the robbery present in an attempt to identify Dee.

Dee was arrested by Philadelphia police for local authorities. He was held in $10,000 bail by United States Commissioner Patterson in Philadelphia pending his removal to Washington.

The two robberies in which Dee is suspected of implication were both daylight holdups by five men armed with revolvers and machine guns.

The first occurred at the bank's branch at Ninth and East Capitol streets. There patrons and employes were forced into a rear room and $14,135 taken.

The June 10 robbery was at the branch at 3608 Georgia avenue. Men, believed to be the same as in the preceding holdup, forced employes to face a wall while they rifled the cages of $9,030.

Mother and Son, 17, Held in Liquor Raid

List Allegedly Found on Youth Leads to Descent on Apartment.

A mother and her 17-year-old son were held on charges of sale and possession of liquor last night, because, police asserted, the son made a habit of carrying a list of his customers with him when he made deliveries.

C. D. Schamp, of the Second Precinct special squad, said several of his men called a certain number and Myer Kushner, 17, of 4924 Ninth street northwest, delivered four pints of liquor to them in the 1400 block of Newton street northwest.

They found a customers' list on his person which led them to raid an apartment on the first floor of 1212 M street northwest. There, they said, they found Mrs. Rebecca Kushner, 56. They gave the name of one of the customers found in the book and were admitted. The police said Mrs. Kushner was bemoaning her son's arrest but agreed to serve them. They also found fifteen pints of liquor in addition to what they "bought" in the place, and another customers list containing 515 names, they reported.

Company Loses $1,500 In Second Recent Theft

Police yesterday were investigating the second robbery within 30 days at the office of the Carpel Co., 2155 Queens Chapel road.

The robbers, said by police to be professional cracksmen, removed $1,500 after breaking open two safes, it was discovered yesterday morning. Police believe the men responsible are members of the gang which has cracked several safes in the Northeast section recently.

COURT CONSIDERING DISCIPLINING DUKE

"Offensive" Language Used in Appeal for 4 Convicted in Rum Case Stricken.

Because of "scandalous, impertinent and defamatory language used by Attorney Jesse C. Duke in his appeal on behalf of a group of convicted rum-ring conspirators, the District Court of Appeals, in an opinion signed yesterday by Chief Justice George E. Martin, ordered the offensive castigations expunged from the record and then declared that "further action on our part of a disciplinary nature may be necessary."

Mr. Duke, in his appeal, charged that "the trial justice (Justice F. Dickinson Letts) has intentionally and deliberately sent up to this honorable court a false, inaccurate, incomplete, deleted and diluted bill of exceptions in this case—and the United States Attorney stands equally guilty in this obstruction of justice and falsification of records herein."

The Court of Appeals declared that a "more serious charge than this" is hardly conceivable.

Proof Is Questioned.

Continuing, the opinion reads: "To justify it, the proof must be unquestionable. Here it is made without any other foundations that the mere statement of counsel, who, if we read the written motion correctly, was not himself of counsel in the trial in the lower court.

"What is of even more importance, nowhere does it appear in what respect the evidence certified by the court is incorrect. All that does appear to justify the indictment of the court and Government counsel of deliberate falsification of a record on a criminal appeal is the conclusion, without more, than 2,000 pages of testimony can not be reduced in narrative form to 169 pages—a conclusion which we think wholly without force or effect.

"In the circumstances it becomes, we think, our duty to strike the language contained in this paragraph as scandalous, impertinent and defamatory."

Records Are Ordered.

In connection with the threatened disciplinary action, the court said: "To the end that we may act advisedly and deliberately in determining this question we deem it desirable that this court should have access to the stenographic record of the testimony of the witnesses in the trial below."

In pursuance of that, the Court ordered Leo A. Rover, United States Attorney, to forthwith file with the Appellate Court a copy of the trial transcript.

Justice Letts, who tried the case, is out of town on a vacation. The case was handled by Assistant United States Attorneys Harold W. Orcutt and James Kirkland. It involved a conspiracy to violate the prohibition law and it resulted in the jailing of almost a score or persons. Mr. Duke was appealing on behalf of four of the convicted men.

CHURCH DELEGATES INDORSE DRY LAWS

Seventh-Day Adventists at Takoma Park Put Issue Above Party Politics.

A resolution favoring retention of the eighteenth amendment was adopted yesterday by the Temperance Commission of the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, in session at Takoma Park.

The organization went on record as strenuously opposed to the return of liquor traffic in any part of the United States.

Similar resolutions will be adopted by local church organizations and local conferences of the denomination throughout the United States between now and the presidential election.

A portion of the resolution read: "This issue is greater than party politics and we should stand for the election of such officials and representatives in government who will in our judgment be most likely to stand in defense of right principles and for the preservation of the eighteenth amendment and its supporting statutes and thus retain the benefits which have already accrued under national prohibition."

Child, 3, Coughs Up Wheel Out of Clock

Disgorges Object He Swallowed as He Played With Mother.

James Newheiser, 3 years old, was gleefully playing with his mother, Mrs. Nellie Newheiser, at their home at 2807 Ontario road northwest yesterday. Suddenly the infant began to choke.

The choking spell was so bad the child began to turn blue about the face. In extreme alarm his mother called Dr. M. D. Baker, of 1767 Lanier place northwest, and the fire rescue squad.

Dr. Baker arrived first and got to work. He patted James on the back. He held his head down. Still the choking continued. Suddenly the boy coughed. Dr. Baker held out his hand. The brass wheel from an alarm clock gleamed in it. As soon as James settled down to normal breathing, he wanted to go for an automobile ride. His mother took him.

TROVATORE ENJOYED BY 2,000 AT STADIUM

Fine Performance of Verdi Opera Presented in Spite of Weather Threat.

The battle between the weather man and Impresario Alfredo Salmaggi came to a conclusion with the presentation of Guiseppe Verdi's "Il Trovatore" before an audience of more than 2,000 at Griffith Stadium last night.

Although once interrupted by a slight shower, the lowering clouds failed to make any appreciable difference to the enthusiastic and indulgent audience.

As a "curtain raiser," sixteen pupils of the Lisa Gardiner School of the Dance presented "The Dance of the Hours," from "La Gioconda." The orchestra was, for this piece, conducted by Signor Salmaggi.

A presentation of "Il Trovatore" is always a pleasurable event, even without the added pleasure of hearing it in the open air greeting a newcomer to the operatic stage, and listening to an orchestra that is ever mindful that it is the background against which characterizations stand in high relief. Such was "The Troubador" of last evening an offering that will long be remembered for its uniform excellence in every branch of the operatic art.

To Agnese Robinson should perhaps go first mention, not so much in honor of her Washington debut, but for her powerful portrayal of Azucena, a wandering gypsy and the supposed mother of Manrico.

Pasquale Ferrara and Anna Leskaya as Manrico and Leonora, team up exceptionally well, their voices blending in the "Miserere" and other duets no less perfectly than they are heard individually in Leonora's "Tacea la Notte Placida" and "D'Amor Sull' Ali Rosee" or in Manrico's "Mal Reggendo All'Aspro Assalto," "Ah! Si, Ben Mio," and "Di Quella Pira."

The fourth pivotal character, that of the treacherous Count di Luna, was creditably played by Pasquale Amato, whose beautiful "Il Balen del Suo Sorriso" quite belies the character of the count. In the supporting company were Gladys Briggs, a native "sister" of Washington, in the role of Inez, Nino Ruisi, Enzo Poltrinieri, and Edoard Russel.

Of especial merit was the orchestral accompaniment, under the direction of Pasquale Rescigno.

Lafayette Escadrille Chief To Leave U. S. for France

To End 10 Years' Service in America for Aerial Duties at Home.

Maj. Georges Thenault, commanding officer of the famous Lafayette Escadrille throughout the World War and the present air attache of France to the United States, will leave this country the first of next year it was learned yesterday.

Having been here more than ten years he will return to serve a tour of active duty with the military air force of France.

In command of a large number of young American pilots fighting under the colors of France during the war, Maj. Thenault is well known throughout the United States.

He was originally appointed assistant military attache to the French embassy here and served in that post from 1922 to 1930 when he was named air attache.

He is married to an American girl, the former Sarah Spencer, of St. Joseph, Mo. They have one boy, Georges, and one girl, Katherine.

Maj. Thenault brought a fast French Morane-Saulnier pursuit plane to America several years ago.

He is recognized as an expert pilot, having completed a series of cross-country flights in this country.

He was the representative of his country at the International Civil Aeronautics Conference held in Washington in May, 1928.

MAJ. GEORGES THENAULT.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER announces that John and Lionel Barrymore and possibly Diana Wynyard, remembered with Basil Rathbone, Arthur Byron, Cecilia Loftus, Mary Nash and Robert Loraine in Benn W. Levy's "The Devil Passes," at the National Theater last April, will have the leading roles in the screen version of "Reunion in Vienna," scheduled to go into production at Culver City immediately following completion of the untitled drama starring the three Barrymores—Lionel, Ethel and John.

"Reunion in Vienna," of course, is the delightful Robert Emmett Sherwood comedy in which the Theater Guild presented Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt at the National last season prior to its New York triumph as one of the outstanding hits of the season. The American theater has seldom known such deft and subtle writing as the erudite and pungent Mr. Sherwood contributed to the last act of this winner of the Megrue Prize for comedy, wherein husband and lover indulge in a devastatingly satirical, pseudo-philosophical discussion of which has the better right to the immediate affection of the husband's wife! Oh Mr. Hays!

It is not difficult to visualize Miss Wynyard and the junior Barrymore in the roles formerly played by Miss Fontanne and Mr. Lunt, but I am not so sure brother Lionel is quite so admirably suited to the role created on the stage by Minor Watson—the one in which he presumably will be cast.

By an eleventh-hour New York decision, communicated to Carter Barron, city manager of the Loew interests in Washington, by wire yesterday afternoon, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell will be held a second week at Loew's Palace in "The First Year," their current hit, adapted from the stage play of the same name by Frank Craven. Under this arrangement, John Gilbert in his own play, "Downstairs," becomes the advance attraction, instead of "Guilty as Hell."

Speaking of Jack Gilbert's "Downstairs" brings to mind the fact that it was directed by Monta Bell, former Washington newspaper man, who was inducted into the mysteries of the cinema by no less a master of its secrets than Mr. Charles Spencer Chaplin himself. And that reminds me that Monta's daughter Consuelo—christened Margaret, it seems to me—with her mother, is a visitor in the Capital, her former home. Mrs. Bell and daughter are en route to Europe for a late summer visit, sailing from New York on August 20, according to present plans.

Next week's attractions, by the way, will be as follows: Earle, Jack Oakie and W. C. Fields in "Million Dollar Legs" and Queenie Smith and Harry Puck headlining the vaudeville; Loew's Fox, Elissa Landi in "Passport to Hell," and "Veils" revue; RKO-Keith's Conrad Nagel and Doris Kenyon in "The Man Called Back;" Metropolitan, Edward G. Robinson in "Two Seconds;" Columbia, Sally Blane in "Forbidden Company;" Palace, Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "The First Year," second week.

Yesterday afternoon's brief reception held by Little Jack Little, headliner of the week's vaudeville bill, in the lounge of the Earle Theater, developed a surprising situation. With the promise of autographed photographs for the first 1,000 feminine fans attending, it was supposed that any mere males looking in would be trampled under 2,000 high heels, as at a bargain rush. On the contrary, I am reliably informed that no less than 40 per cent of the attendance at the rout was of the masculine gender, thus placing Little Jack Little in a class with Warren William as an artist who appeals no less to his own sex than to the stronger!

"American Madness," the screen's solution of what's the matter with the banking business—if anything—will be previewed by leading bankers of the Capital and members of the press (these two groups probably never have met before—why should they?) as guests of Hardie Meakin, manager of RKO-Keith's, Saturday midnight. As I recall it, a bank is a place where you go to fix it up about that overdraft!

And what a difference it seems to make whose ballwick those bonus marchers are in, doesn't it?

1,000 PERSONS FILE FOR DISTRICT RELIEF

Some of More Needy Given Grocery Orders to Tide Them Over.

Approximately 1,000 persons have been registered at the special unemployment relief headquarters, John Marshall place and C street northwest, Leroy A. Halbert, director of the $350,000 District fund, announced last night. For the first time since the office opened Monday morning no one was turned away yesterday without being registered.

Because of the small staff of special welfare workers however, a week or ten days will be required to check cases by personal visits at the homes of the applicants, Mr. Halbert said.

Some of the more needy among the unemployed have been given grocery orders to tide them over until they can be put to work, the director said, and a number of those who were previously attested to by reputable charitable agencies have been given employment already in District government service.

As there have been a number of duplications of those whose names were presented by charitable agencies and those who registered, no accurate estimate of the total number of applicants is obtainable, Mr. Halbert said that 800 cases had been obtained from charitable agencies and 1,000 had been registered. It is believed that the total, however, will run between 1,200 and 1,500 instead of 1,800.

Neither the District Commissioners nor the special relief staff had received any request, yesterday from the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks for unemployed to be used in cleaning up parks where the bonus marchers formerly were encamped.
